ELDERS DISSENT

Court Upholds Law On Heroin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, over the bitter dissent of its two liberal elders, upheld today federal law that makes possession of heroin sufficient evidence of illegal importation of the drug from abroad.

Justice Byron R. White delivered the 6-2 decision.

Justices Hugo L. Black and William O. Douglas charged the majority with weakening at least eight Bill of Rights guarantees. They stressed, particularly, that the decision alleviates the government's task of having to prove guilt at trial.

The two holdover New Deal justices, lashing their colleagues, said in Black's words: "Few if any decisions of this court have done more than this one today to undercut and destroy the due process safeguards the federal Bill of Rights specifically provides to protect defendants charged with crime in United States courts."

Black, who will be 84 next month and has been on the court since 1937, wrote:

"Our Constitution was not written in the sands to be washed away by each wave of new judges blown in by each successive political wind which brings new political administrations into temporary power.

"Rather, our Constitution was fashioned to perpetuate liberty and justice by marking clear, explicit, and lasting constitutional boundaries for trials."

The decision upheld the conviction of James Turner of Weehawken, N.J., on charges of two federal narcotics law violations —receiving unlawfully imported heroin and purchase of illegally

CAPITOL HILL TALKS

Mitchell Smooths Way For Carswell

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, working hard to smooth the way for Supreme Court nominee George Harrold Carswell, sent Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell to Capitol Hill as an advance man to forestall ethics questions.

Hours before Judge Carswell himself was told by the President he was his choice and hours before Monday's public announcement, Mitchell was closeted with top Republicans, displaying financial statements to show there would be no Haynsworth-like problems.

The information in hand, GOP leaders were able to rally quickly behind the Floridian when White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler made the selection public in mid-afternoon.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska, senior Republican on the Judiciary Committee, which begins hearings on the nomination next Tuesday, was able to tell reporters approvingly that Carswell has had "a minimum of business dealings" since he entered public life as a U.S. attorney in 1953.

And GOP Senate Whip Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, a Republican who fought Nixon's nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. to the same seat, said: "The reports thus far have been very favorable and I hope the Senate will be able to confirm the nomination without delay."

The Haynsworth nomination failed partly because of a series of ethics allegations leveled at the South Carolina judge. Many of the charges appeared to take the administration and GOP Senate leaders by surprise.

Ziegler, meanwhile, told reporters assembled at his White House office, that Carswell had received a "complete clearance" following an investigation into his holdings and tax returns.

Carswell, 50, in a news conference at his home north of Tallahassee, said: "I have my home and a few parcels of real property I inherited from my father and my grandfather."

Hruska said the judge and his wife have a net worth of about $200,000. Hruska said their assets include some Georgia timberland an an interest in the Alberta Box and Crate Co.

A Georgia-born Democrat who became a Republican in 1952, Carswell was appointed chief judge of the U.S. district court in Tallahassee in 1958 by President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Nixon, who was Eisenhower's vice president and with whom Carswell remembers shaking hands at a reception, elevated the judge last spring to the U.S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Now Carswell is being catapulted by the Republican President to the Supreme Court. At 50, he would be the youngest justice and often the key vote between the four-man liberal team of Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall and the four-man conservative team of John M. Harlan, Potter Stewart, Byron R. White and Warren E. Burger, the chief justice.

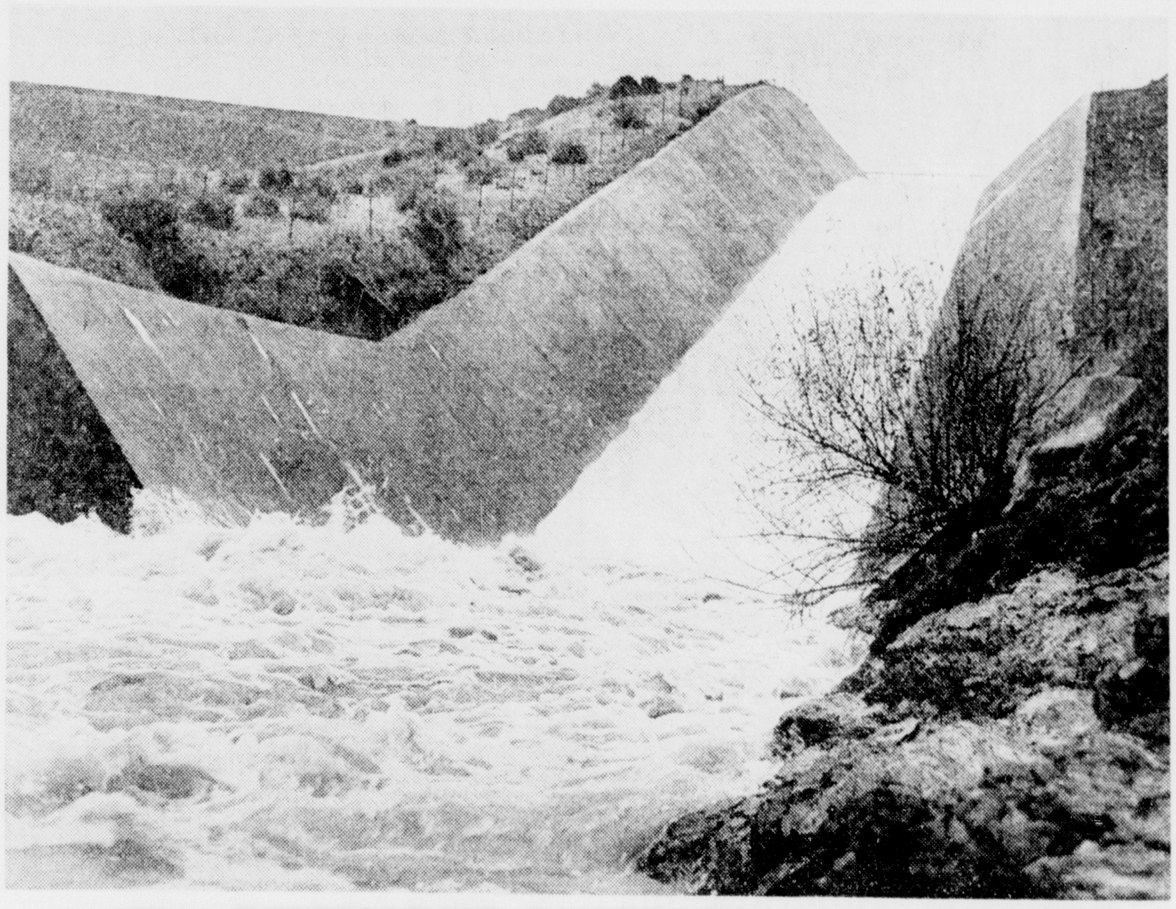

The ninth seat on the court has been vacant since Abe Fortas resigned last May.

Ziegler, announcing the nomination, said Carswell was a "strict constructionist" with "an outstanding judicial and personal background."

On Capitol Hill, conservatives were pleased and liberals were mostly silent.

The nominee was born in Irwinton, Ga., Dec. 22, 1919, the son of a longtime Georgia state legislator. He attended Duke University and graduated from the Walter F. George School of Law at Mercer University.

He is a Navy veteran, the father of four, a grandfather, a bridge player and a football fan.

MARIN RESERVOIRS OVERFLOW WITH WATER

Some of the one billion gallons of water, that have been added to Marin Municipal Water District reservoirs by the recent series of storms, flows down the spillway of Nicasio dam. Both the Marin Municipal and North Marin County water districts' reservoirs are filled and overflowing. Light rain continued to fall over Marin today—the 12th consecutive day that measurable precipitation has fallen in the area. San Rafael's total for 24 hours at noon today was .59. Rainfall totals around Marin for the 24 hours to 8 a.m. today included: Point Reyes, .76 of an inch; Woodacre and Ross, .73; Fairfax, .50; San Anselmo, .38; Tamalpais Valley, .28; Bolinas, .26; Civic Center and Mill Valley, .24; Sausalito, .22; Tiburon, .17, and Novato, .11. Youth Sees Grim Future For Marin

By PAT ANGLE

"It's kind of sad," Steven Gunn said, his young face serious. "I always wanted to have children, but now I don't think it is practical or safe."

"A lot of traditions, like a family and a nice home, are going to be impossible for young people today," Newtza Cornelius added.

The two young people, both 17-year-old seniors at San Rafael High School, were perfectly serious; they are convinced that overpopulation and pollution are destroying their world and their futures.

The present doesn't look so good to them either, as evidenced by the display of today's pollution they have put together in the school's student center. The exhibit, open to the public this week, is sponsored by the school's Environmental Conservation Club, of which Miss Cornelius is a founder and president.

It is an ugly display of garbage, oil slicks, water pollution and a baby deformed by DDT, but it is what the young people see as the shape of the present and a foreshadowing of the future.

Looking 35 years into the future, Miss Cornelius and Gunn presented a bleak picture of Marin County in 2005. "Stores won't be practical; we'll have to have open markets because there won't be enough food and people will be fighting for it," she said. "Transportation will be such a problem, with jammed freeways, that the food supply may be cut off."

"I see garbage dumps and garbage all over the county," Gunn said. "We have too much trash and a lot of it, like aluminum cans, is not going to disintegrate; we'll have to put it somewhere.

"Already in New York City people throw their garbage out the windows and the same thing will happen here," he added. 'When you have too many people and too much garbage you have an impossible situation."

As Marin continues to build housing and shopping areas to

LEGISLATIVE ADVISORY

Mill Valley April Ballot To Carry Lowering Of Vote Age

Mill Valley voters, who got the chance in 1968 to vote on the Vietnam War, last night were given the opportunity to express their opinion on lowering California's voting age to 18. (Other Mill Valley Council stories, pages 16,17.)

The city council, quickly endorsing a proposal by the city youth commission, voted unanimously to place the issue, advisory to the Legislature only, on the April 14 ballot.

George Kerwin, representing the youth commission, said that the group recommended the proposition be, "Shall the California voting age be lowered to 18?" But City Atty. Leland H. Jordan said the wording may require changing to adhere to court decisions requiring that the outcome of such referenda be official policy of a governing body.

Kerwin said the commission hoped that a favorable vote April 14 would give impetus to an initiative campaign to gain a statewide referendum in November, binding on the Legislature, to reduce the voting age to 18. Kerwin said similar referenda already are scheduled this year in Oregon, Wyoming, Montana, Hawaii and Alaska.

In California, he said, a majority of the Senate and Assembly favors reducing the voting age but attempts to gain a two-thirds vote in the Legislature to force a statewide referendum have failed.

The only comment from the council came from Mayor Dean N. Meyer, who noted that the ballot proposal was the commission's first major request of the council, and George E. Wickham, who wondered whether the commission had considered having a new minimum voting age other than 18.

Kerwin said the group had, but felt 18 coincided with the statewide drive.

Mill Valley was among only a handful of U.S. cities to conduct a Vietnam War referendum two years ago and became, with Beverly Hills, one of only two communities to pass a measure calling upon the President to seek a peaceful solution and start an orderly withdrawal of troops.

Carswell Has Middle Road Rights Record

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

George Harrold Carswell's rulings as a federal judge have dealt with schools, labor, and a variety of civil rights cases.

In 1961, the Supreme Court District Judge in Tallahassee, Fla., forbid city officials to segregate restaurant or restroom facilities at the new city airport.

In 1963, he dismissed a suit by a black woman asking that Talahassee theaters be required to sell tickets to Negroes. The U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans reversed Carswell's order of dismissal, but the case was settled before further hearing.

In 1965 Carswell ordered a barber shop in a Tallahassee hotel to serve black customers. The barber, whom Carswell patronized, instead went into the barber supply business.

Later in 1965, Carswell dismissed a suit brought by Negroes to force the opening of

Calley Team Claims Trial Nixon's Idea

Defense In My Lai Probe Charges 'Command' Plan

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Defense attorneys claimed today that President Nixon made the final decision to bring murder charges against Lt. William L. Calley Jr., in the My Lai massacre case.

The defense made its claim shortly after the number of charges against Calley was reduced from 109 to 102 by mutual consent with the prosecution.

George Latimer, Calley's civilian lawyer, asserted that Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird went to the President and "told him in effect 'We have to prosecute Lt. Calley for murder.' "

And, Latimer continued, "Nixon said 'Go ahead—it's fine with me.' "

Then, Latimer said, down through the chain of command came the orders to prosecute Calley-Laird to Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor to the Army Chief of Staff, Gen. William Westmoreland, to the military at Ft. Benning.

Thus "command control" was exercised in the decision to prosecute Calley, Latimer said.

In effect he was saying Calley couldn't get a fair trial from the military. Also, the U.S. Supreme Court has thrown out military court decisions in which command influence has been shown.

The military trial court judge, Lt. Col. Reid W. Kennedy, ruled after Latimer's presentation that the prosecution now must try to prove that local officials were acting without command influence.

Kennedy already had said he understood the defense would call Laird, Resor and Westmoreland as witnesses.

In reducing the number of charges, the prosecution agreed that seven of the deaths probably were included in the other specifications which charge that Calley killed civilians "by means of shooting them with a rifle at My Lai on March 16, 1968.

The role of publicity in the forthcoming trial of Calley was brought up early by Kennedy when he discussed the possibili-

First U.S., Peking Session In Two Years

WARSAW (AP) — Envoys of the United States and Communist China met for an hour today in the first formal contact between their governments in two years. U.S. Ambassador Walter J. Stoessel Jr. said they "discussed a number of matters of mutual interest."

"By mutual agreement, however, our discussion and the topics we covered are held in confidence," Stoessel told newsmen after his exchange with Charge d'Affaires Lei Yang at the Chinese Embassy in Warsaw.

Stoessel said no date was fixed for the next meeting, but "ti was agreed that we would be in touch at an early date to consider this question together."

Stoessel arrived in his limousine two minutes after the scheduled 2 p.m. starting time. He was accompanied by Paul H. Kreisberg and Donald M. Anderson, State Department China experts, and Thomas W. Simons, an embassy political officer.

In the Nationalist Chinese capital of Taipei, the China News, an English-language paper, declared that the talks "can be regarded as an American exercise in opportunism."

The paper said Peking "wants nothing less" from the talks than U.S. withdrawal from the western Pacific and an end to American opposition to Red Chinese membership in the United Nations.

Today's meeting is the first in two years. They began in 1955 to discuss repatriation of Korean War prisoners and continued until January 1968.

About 40 newsmen and photographers were waiting outside the entrance of the embassy when Stoessel arrived. Four Chinese Embassy employes, one wearing a large Mao Tse-tung

Hair Issue Buried By Split Vote?

With two trustees declaring they were voting against their own beliefs, the Tamalpais High School District board last night drove a stake through the heart of the great hair controversy and buried it at the crossroads in hopes it is dead for good and all. (Another Tamalpais High School District story, page 5.)

The board voted 3-2, to approve a proposed set of athletic rules for Redwood High School which Supt. Robert D. Torrey said violated the intent of the board's policy.

The key rule says athletes will wear their hair above the ears and collar. The wording is nearly identical to the rule which started the hair controversy last fall by barring three athletes from cross-country competition.

The only trustee who really liked the rule was David D. Ring, who said the haircut issue is tied in with community concern about a lack of discipline in the district. The rule is legally defensible, he said, and "we can't reach a decision by postponing it."

Trustee Gloria Melbostad said she disagreed with the rule, but would vote for it because she has "no mandate to foist my views on the community" and the taxpayers are "not interested in paying for an endless debate" on the issue. "To prolong the process is to prolong chaos" she said.

Trustee Frank L. Miller, who voted with Ring and Mrs. Melbostad for the rule, said the issue had damaged the district severely. "There's no rest within the house," he said. He estimated the hair debate, which has occupied the board sporadically for three months, had cost the district more than $50,000. He supported the Redwood rule only to bring peace, he said.

Chairman Bette Wallace and Robert W. Corlett voted against the rule. Corlett saying the board wanted individual coaches to set grooming rules rather than the athletic department as Redwood proposes.

Redwood Principal Donald Kreps supported the rules prepared by athletic director Robert Troppmann and his coaches despite a petition against them reportedly signed by 60 per cent of the school faculty.

Letting individual coaches set policy would lead to trouble, Kreps said. "The individual must be accountable to the department."

Trustees took pains to point out that hair was not the real issue in the case. "Once hair became identified with student discipline and 'what's wrong the the kids nowadays,' " Mrs. Melbostad said, "all hope of a rational solution was lost."

She predicted that the I-J will report in exultant headlines that the coaches have won . . . but no one wins . . . We have lost trust . . . faith in ourselves . . . and perhaps the coaches have lost most of all."

Vaughn Marker of Larkspur, who served on a committee to study the rules question, pleaded for passage of the Redwood rules, and after the vote praised the board for its comments before the vote.

The board also approved athletic rules for Tamalpais High School, continuing that school's more liberal policy, and was told rules for Sir Francis Drake High School are being revised again and will be ready for the board shortly.

The rule approvals stand only until June 30 because board policy now requires a review by athletic department staffs at the beginning of each school year.

But the board made clear last night it will not stand for another major fight on the issue no matter what happens.

GI MAKES DOWNHILL ATTACK

Firing through a tree already scarred by bombs and artillery, a U.S. 25th Division machinegunner sprays enemy positions downslope on Black Virgin Mountain, 55 miles southwest of Saigon. Infantrymen were landed on the peak by helicopter after B52 raids failed to dislodge enemy that allied commanders feared might be part of a buildup for an attack during or after Tet, early next month. B52s yesterday also blasted the Seven Mountains region 115 miles southwest of Saigon, hitting enemy staging areas along the Cambodian border. (AP Wirephoto)

Doctors Urged To Explain Pill Risks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration has told doctors they should explain the risks of high blood pressure, liver damage, diabetes and cancer to women taking oral contraceptive pills even though the agency has no defiite proof of any such link.

The FDA also announced Monday manufacturers will be required to stengthen the label warnings about a link between the pill and blood clots.

Meanwhile, the producers of a low-hormone "minipill" oral contraceptive announced it has halted testing with humans because the drug had produced tumors in dogs. The much-heralded pill has been tested up to two years on some 3,000 U.S. women and has been in use in France, Mexico and Britain.

Syntex Laboratories Inc. of Palo Alto, Calif., announced the decision, which comes as a blow to U.S. pill researchers. The firm said some tumors in the dogs were cancerous, some were pre-cancerous and some benign. The firm said no cancer had been found in women taking part in the tests. It said tests will continue with dogs and monkeys.

The FDA, in suggesting fuller discussion with patients of the risks of oral contraceptive pills, sent letters to 381,000 physicians, hospital pharmacists and hospital administrators. The letter pointed to a recent British study that found clotting linked particularly to oral contraceptives with high estrogen content.

FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards said women should be made fully aware of the risks "thus permitting the participation of the patient in the assessment of the risk associated with this method" of oral contraception.

In strengthening the labeling regulation, the agency is acting on the findings of an FDA advisory committee which said a link between all oral contraceptives and certain blood clot disorders is now proven. Previously the labels were required only to mention that one study indicated a clot link.

National concern—and controversy—over the pill has snowballed since last week when senators began hearing testimony on possible dangers of the oral contraceptives.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, rejecting criticism that his hearings into birth control pills have created an unwarranted scare, said Monday his probe has spotlighted an "honest dispute" among medical men.

The hearings produced much testimony that the pill is suspected of causing or contributing to a wide variety of ailments, including cancer of the breast, cervix and uterus.

The hearings resume for three days Wednesday and are expected to continue off and on for several months.

'Minipill' Cancer Link Halts Tests

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Cancer found in test dogs using the "minipill" oral contraceptive has led to suspension of testing on American women volunteers, Syntex Laboratories has announced.

Some 4,700 women worldwide are being tested with the "minipill"— so named for its low hormone content—a company spokesman said.

Tests on American women will be stopped under a voluntary decision reached after discussions with the Food and Drug Administration, Syntex said Monday.

TESTS TO CONTINUE

Tests on foreign women will continue pending the outcome of talks with health officers in the countries involved, the spokesman said.

Tests on 300 Canadian women were halted six weeks ago after breast lumps were found in some test dogs.

The pill is not marketed in the United States but has been sold in France, Mexico and the United Kingdom for several years.

Russ Wilks, spokesman for the firm, one of the nation's leading producers of oral contraceptives, said evidence of "pre-cancerous changes" and a "cancerous lump" in the mammary system of one test dog prompted the decision to discontinue testing on women in the United States.

"There have been lumps found in the mammary systems of some of the dogs," Wilks said. "Some of the lumps show pre-cancerous changes, some are benign and one was cancer.

FEW PROBLEMS

"We haven't had any reactions like this in any of our test monkeys. One woman had an irregular vaginal bleeding but, other than that, there have been no problems with the women volunteers.

The drug being tested contains the substance chlormadinone acetate but not the hormone estrogen, a major element in the standard pill, which has been on the U.S. market for nearly 10 years.

Louisiana Governor Fights Bussing Order

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Gov. John J. McKeithen says he won't permit his own children to be bused to achieve a racial balance in a public school and he urges other parents to take the same stand.

In a statewide television speech Monday night, McKeithen declared:

"I for one don't plan to sit by in mute anger and see anybody use my children in the continuation of the greatest political hoax ever perpetrated on our poeple."

The governor claimed massive busing of children to schools outside their home areas is the scheme of "someone, who is living in Washington and who is sending his children to school in Virginia or Maryland."

McKeithen has three teenaged daughters at University High, operated by Louisiana State University's college of education in Baton Rouge. Dean Leameus Fuller said he knows of no integration in the student body although there may be some Negro student teachers.

Another school official said students provide their own transportation and University High is not under any court orders to integrate.

Shortly before McKeithen spoke, Thibodaux High School in coastal Lafourche Parish was closed because of tensions between black and white students.

Lafourche Parish was the first in Louisiana to begin operating a single school system for both whites and blacks, ending its separate systems in September 1968.

W. J. DeFelice, Lafourche schools superintendent, said he felt the turmoil stemmed from the uproar elsewhere in Louisiana and the South over recent U.S. Supreme Court edicts extending total desegregation of public school classrooms.

He said he hoped to reopen the school "as soon as possible but we're going to have to get more understanding between the races."

Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia hailed McKeithen's speech and predicted "many other public officials will be joining us soon."

McKeithen insisted his talk to the convention of the Louisiana School Boards Association "has nothing to do with integration or segregation."

The governor declared: "Segregation is dead. Integration is the law of the land."

"I'm proud to say that no state in this nation in my own opinion can compare with what we have done in Louisiana in our efforts to bring our black brethren, who we know have been mistreated in the past, into full partnership in Louisiana," McKeithen added.

He said he would "not allow" the busing of children to quickly achieve unitary school systems as ordered by federal courts.

Admitting that he had no constitutional authority to stop busing, McKeithen said if Louisianans would not permit their children to be transported long distances "hundreds of thousands of aggrieved black and white citizens will join us."

Medic Hits Hearings On Pill Issue

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A medical scientist who has helped develop a new birth control pill says congressional hearings on oral contraceptives are "politically motivated" and the public is being misled.

Dr. Robert B. Greenblatt, 64, chairman of the endocrinology department of the Medical College of Georgia here, said Monday that six of the eight experts called to testify before a Senate monopoly subcommittee were against the pill.

"Why don't they invite some of us who are for the pill? The great silent majority isn't being heard from in this case," he said in an interview.

He noted that the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists polled its membership and found that 87 per cent were in favor of the pill.

Greenblatt acknowledged that there were some "gray areas" as far as use of the pill is concerned, but added: "At this point it would be a tragedy to take away the only real weapon we have that may dampen the population explosion so my children and your children can have a better world to live in."

The endocrinologist did research on the new sequential pill, not yet on the market but designed to be taken only once every 20 days.

Greenblatt said that in 1900, before the contraceptive pills, 66 out of every 100,000 women developed cancer of the breast while in 1965 the figure was 66.5 per 100,000.

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union said Monday Britain has joined the United States in a naval buildup in the Mediterranean.

PARIS (UPI)—The Renault Automobile Co. said Monday it will make $18.1 million worth of auto parts for the Soviet Union. Renault said the Soviets also had asked the French firm to submit plans for a diesel truck factory from which the Soviets could turn out 150,000 trucks annually.

Laos Reds Boast

TOKYO (UPI) —The Khaosan Pathet Lao news agency said Monday 4,500 U.S. and Laotian forces were "put out of action" in November and December by Communist Pathet Lao guerrilla forces.

The phrase "put out of action" was not explained.

Youths Burn Selves

LILLE, France (AP) — An 18-year-old student doused himself with gasoline today on the sports field at his high school, then set fire to himself. The youth, Robert Gerevens, died a few hours later. He was the second student to burn himself to death in Lille in four days.

Gerevens left a letter saying he was killing himself "because of the wars and the madness of men." A 17-year-old student who killed himself Saturday said the day before his suicide that "there must be a big fire in the courtyard of the school for Biafra."

Banker Accused

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A former bank official was charged today with stealing $400,000 from the Australian Freedom From Hunger Campaign.

The charges specified that Peter Geoffrey Huxley, 43, stole two checks, each drawn on the Sydney branch of the Rural Bank of New South Wales for $200,000. A police prosecutor told the court Huxley would eventually be charged with the theft of $1.8 million, $500,000 of it from the Freedom From Hunger Campaign.

Bomb Threat

TOKYO (AP) — An anonymous telephone caller told the Tokyo police Monday night that the U.S. Embassy would be bombed. Police rushed reinforcements to the embassy and other U.S. installations in downtown Tokyo. By this afternoon there had been on explosions, and the extra guards were removed.

Russ Rap Protest

MOSCOW (AP) — Two young Italians and a Belgian arrested for staging protest demonstrations in Moscow over the weekend may face prosecution, the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda hinted today.

The two Italians, Teresa Marinuzzi of Bari and Vantenio Tacchi of Rome, were arrested Saturday night after scattering leaflets in a downtown department store demanding the release of imprisoned Soviet intellectual dissenters. Sunday night, in an apparently unrelated incident, Victor Van Brantegem of Ghent was arrested for scattering similar leaflets in a Moscow operetta theater.

NEW YORK (AP) — Eleven Soviet journalists have begun a three-week American tour that will take them to Chicago, Milwaukee, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Sacramento, Oklahoma City, New Orleans and Washington.

One of their first requests when they landed at Kennedy International Airport here Monday was: "Where can I buy some new American books?"

Kenyans Set Fire To Squatter Shacks

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Thousands were made homeless Monday when the Nairobi fire brigade set slum shacks aflame in two city shantytown areas.

The wood and corrugated iron huts had been built contrary to city laws and counsil officials claimed families were notified months ago that their homes would be burned down.

Nigeria Calls Soviet Help Biafran Key

MOSCOW (AP) — The Nigerian ambassador to Moscow today gave the Soviet Union credit for the federal government's victory over Biafra in the Nigerian civil war.

Ambassador G.T. Kurubo told a news conference the federal victory can be attributed "more than any other single thing—more than all other things put together" to Soviet aid.

The Soviet Union is believed to have been a major supplier of arms to federal forces in their fight against the Biafrans, although this has never been publicly admitted in Moscow.

The ambassador said Nigeria is especially grateful to Moscow because the Russians "understand African sensitivity."

He said that the important thing is that the Soviet Union "makes no noise" about its assistance to Nigeria.

Kurubo declined to specify the amount of aid Nigeria has received from the Soviet Union but he said the Russians have been helping "in a very big way."

"The sky is the limit for the future of the Soviet-Nigerian cultural and economic cooperation," he said. "The future is very bright."

Presidential Pilot Killed In Vietnam

BRYAN, Ohio (AP) — An Army helicopter pilot who acted as security pilot for both the President and vice president has died of wounds received when his helicopter was shot down in Vietnam.

David Aeschliman, of nearby West Unity, a 20-year-old chief warrant officer, was named the top pilot in his squadron two months ago. He served as security pilot to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew Jan. 1-2 on his trip to Vietnam and acted in the same capacity for President Nixon last year when the President visited Germany.

POCKETFUL OF MIRACLES

Mrs. Robert L. Huck's gravenstein apple tree at 741 Bamboo Terrace in San Rafael produced apples so odd that she calls her 8-year-old tree "a miracle." Pointing upward toward the sky, her hour-glass-shaped apples have little similarity to any Mrs. Huck has ever seen, although a few she picked she found "really appley." (Independent-Journal photo)

Fair-Marin Board Asks $150,000 For Adequate 800-Seat Auditorium

Fair-Marin directors last night recommended that Marin County supervisors allocate $150,000 to provide a fully functioning 800-seat Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

The auditorium is slated eventually to have 2,100 seats, but the first phase, due to be completed this June, would have an 800-seat capacity.

Supervisors last month asked how the building could be made usable without completion of the second phase, still several years away.

Fair-Marin directors at the special meeting gave priority to 10 items, estimated to cost $150,000, which would put the auditorium in operating shape.

They also made other recommendations to be presented to supervisors today as follows:

That second priority be given to a revised Civic Center master plan at a cost not yet determined.

That supervisors authorize an application to the state Department of Fairs and Expositions for $252,000 for site development of three acres at the fairgrounds, including sewer lines, water lines, rest rooms, paths, fencing, lighting, maintenance equipment and storage building.

That supervisors increase the allocation for landscaping, irrigation, lighting and trees, now at $25,000 to either $35,000 to cover one acre or $70,000 to cover two acres in the 1970-71 budget.

Funds available to cover the $150,000 needed to put the auditorium in fucntioning condition are $100,000 in this year's budget for site development and $65,000 in the project reserve.

In effect, the available funds would be committed to the interior of the auditorium, rather than the site.

Dirctors also recommended that if reserve funds are put toward the $150,000, supervisors should replenish the reserve fund by $47,000 or whatever necessary.

Harold Stockstad, president of Fair-Marin, said that if the $150,000 were allocated, there will still be need of an additional $378,147 to complete the auditorium to 2,100 seats.

The 10 priority items recommended are:

Acoustical curtains, $33,000; orchestra pit lift, $38,500; 86 additional seats, $5,500; seat bank wagon, $8,800; carpeting for foyer and auditorium side aisles, $11,000; dressing rooms, makeup mirrors, counters and lights, $35,200; lobby and foyer furnishings, $4,730; orchestra chairs, $660; signs and lettering, $1,650; box office equipment, $1,650;, plus x5 per cent for contingencies.

Stockstad named Miller as spokesman for Fair-Marin before supervisors today in the event he can't make the meeting.

John F. McInnis, chairman of the board of supervisors, recently chided Stockstad for not designating a spokesman for Fair-Marin when he couldn't attend himself..

Hundreds Ride On Ferry Sunday

A "surprising" total of 583 persons ignored chilly, damp weather to ride the Tiburon-San Francisco ferry on its first Sunday operation by the Golden Gate Bridge District, Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring reported yesterday.

Bridge district directors voted earlier this month to expand the ferry operation to seven days a week. The Saturday and Sunday service departs Tiburon every 90 minutes, starting at 10 a.m., with the last return leaving San Francisco at 4:45 p.m.

Charles Stanley Jackson Jr., 42, of the Carmel Hotel, San Rafael, was arrested Friday by San Rafael police on suspicion of one instance of credit card forgery and not for passing fraudulent checks as erroneously reported in Saturday's Independent-Journal.

A Fair-Marin Director Is Stepping Down

Marilyn Miskimen of San Rafael, a director of Fair-Marin since its start, resigned last night effective Feb. 1 due to "pressures at home."

Mrs. Miskimen's resignation came at the close of a special meeting, at which it was considered possible Harold Stockstad, president of Fair-Marin, might resign.

Stockstad had been criticized by Marin County supervisors for not moving faster on a campaign to raise funds for second phase development of the Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

Stockstad didn't bring up the matter last night and neither did any of the other four directors present. Directors W. P. (Doc) Duhamel and Stephen A. Zellerbach were absent.

Mrs. Miskimen suggested that directors consider increasing the size of the seven-member board, saying the problems it faces "require a lot of thinking."

Mrs. Miskimen was a member of the ad hoc fairgrounds committee, which preceded formation of Fair-Marin, and later was elected a director for a three-year term which expires next October.

Stockstad said a successor to Mrs. Miskimen would be selected at Fair-Marin's quarterly membership meeting March 2. He named directors Dudley F. Miller and Lotte McWatters and Claudia O'Connor of Mill Valley, a member of the audience, as the nominating committee.

Directors took under study proposed schedules for rental of the Veterans Memorial Auditorium suggested by Leon G. Kalimos, executive director.

Kalimos proposed that the noncommercial rental for educational, cultural and service groups that qualify be half that of commercial rental.

Commercial fees on one proposed schedule ranged from $150 to $425 per performance, plus 5 per cent of gross receipts above $2,500, the rates depending upon extent of use and whether it be a weekday or weekend. He estimated the income to Fair-Marin from this schedule would be $81,651 a year.

Commercial fees on the second proposed schedule ran about one-third higher, and Kalimos estimated they would bring annual income of $102,751.

Fair-Marin directors also:

Coleman Parents Urge Sewage Work

Parents of children attending Coleman School appeared at last night's meeting of the San Rafael City Council to protest a flow of raw sewage onto the school's playground during recent heavy rains.

The council assured them the city's current program to upgrade San Rafael's sewer system will help alleviate the problem.

"I certainly hope so," retorted Mary Lou Jacobson of 19 Palm Avenue, secretary of the Coleman Parent-Teacher Association. "The children are coming home from school with excrement on their clothes and have to walk to school through sewage."

"It's a mess on Grand Avenue between Olive and Bell Avenues," she added, "the sewage comes bubbling up through the manholes."

The council listened to a report by Dominic Selmi, consulting engineer for Dan Coleman and Associates, Greenbrae firm which is designing the improvements, and were told all is proceeding on schedule.

Designs and plans for the city's portion of the project (collection systems) should be completed by April, Selmi told the council. He said designs for the sewer mains are 60 per cent completed and location of underground utilities is 90 per cent finished.

Easement acquisitions and encroachment permits needed for the system should be obtained by March, according to the engineer.

The council admitted there is one stumbling block to completion of Phase II and III of the project by next winter's rainy season: the passage of a $600,000 bond issue in June.

According to Selmi, the city has applied for a half a million dollars from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, but said the bond issue must pass if the city is to qualify for the matching federal funds.

He indicated the San Rafael Sanitation District's part of the system, a pumping station, should be ready by Dec. 1.

The San Rafael City Council also:

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Pat Hetherton from the planning commission. Hetherton, who is moving to Greenbrae, has served on the commission for 16 years.

CLAIMS — Rejected the following claims against the city and referred them to the city's insurance carrier: Karen Silva, personal injuries; Harvey G. Murch, Mrs. Raymond Cerutti and Edwin T. Caldwell, property damage.

Lynch's Job Now Is Up For Grabs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —The Democratic nomination for the one statewide office the party holds — attorney general — is up for grabs now that incumbent Thomas C. Lynch has decided not to run.

Within closest reach, but not grabbing for the present, is Charles A. O'Brien, Lynch's 44-year- old chief deputy attorney.

"Charlie O'Brien would make a great attorney general, and I hope he runs," said G. W. "Joe" Holsinger, Northern California Democratic chairman, after Lynch's announcemnt Monday.

But O'Brien, pressed by newsmen, declined to say whether he would seek his boss' job.

"This is Tom Lynch's day," O'Brien said, and added that before he would have anything to say on the subject, "I want to talk to some people."

Meanwhile, George T. Davis, 62, a San Francisco attorney, said he would seek the Democratic nomination and make a formal announcement on his candidacy in about a month.

Davis was California chairman for President Harry S. Truman's 1948 re-election campaign and 10 years earlier headed the campaign of Gov. Culbert L. Olson.

button, checked newsmens' credentials at the gate.

After the doors were opened for Stoessel and his aides, newsmen had to wait a few moments until Chinese officials escorted them to the second-floor conference room where the meeting was to take place.

There, the four Chinese and four Americans sat at two tables, facing each other, spaced a few feet apart.

A large portrait of Mao hung on one wall and a white plastic bust of the Chinese leader was in a glass case at the other end of the room.

A bigger-than-life sized bronze statue of Mao in the lobby was framed by a string of bright light bulbs.

Bomb Injures Two Policemen

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two police officers each lost a hand early today in a bomb explosion triggered when they turned a key in the lock of a mystery box left outside a businessman's office door.

Officer Michael T. Kriha, 27, lost his left hand and officer Edward P. McDonald, 29, lost his right hand, police said. The men were in serious condition, a hospital spokesman said.

The businessman told officers he had received deadly threats which he thought arose out of a recent lawsuit in which he was involved.

The businessman, Herbert Heyman, 55, telephoned police about the mystery box just before midnight. He said he found it outside his office before leaving work earlier in the day and later decided to call police.

Plea Of Innocent To A Charge Of Burglary

Robert Charles Baldi, 20, of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of burglary and possesing stolen property. A jury trial was set for the week of March 9.

Baldi, on probation from a previous burglary conviction and awaiting sentencing on a stolen property charge, is accused of taking property from a San Rafael apartment Dec. 30.

$350 Fine Ordered

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday fined Ian Gordon, 55, a former Marin resident who now lives in Los Angeles, $350 and ordered him to make restitution for a $115 bad check which Gordon wrote in 1967. He also placed Gordon on one-year probation.

Judge Halts Second Phase Logging Trial

The county's suit against loggers on the Ethel Righetti Ranch came to an abrupt end yesterday in Alameda County Superior Court when the judge decided to terminate the second phase of the trial.

County Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Michael Wornum, scheduled to testify yesterday, were not called to the stand.

Last week, Judge Robert H. Kroninger issued a preliminary injunction, ordering the loggers not to add any silt to the waters flowing down from the Righetti Ranch to properties below. The judge ordered the loggers to post $50,000 bond.

In the second phase, which was to start this week, Deputy County Counsel Joseph A. Forest wanted to stop the logging on grounds that the operation now constitutes a violation of the county's new natural resources ordinance.

The judge ruled that the preliminary injunction issued last week would be sufficient to protect the county, at least until a hearing on a permanent injunction.

A hearing on a permanent injunction is at least a year away in Alameda Superior Court, said Forest. "For all practical purposes, the case is over." Forest today asked the county supervisors for an expert to start taking sedimentation tests at the ranch to see if the court order against excess sedimentation is being violated.

imported heroin. His 10-year prison sentence stands.

The vote on the purchase count was 5 to 3. Justice Thurgood Marshall joined Black and Douglas on this issue.

White, in the majority opinion, said the jury was wholly justified in concluding that possession of heroin is equivalent to possessing imported heroin. The reason, White said, is that only tiny amounts of heroin are produced domestically, if any is produced domestically at all.

Using the same logic, however, the majority reversed Turner's conviction and a separate 10-year sentence for possessing and buying illegally imported cocaine. White said it was apparent from the testimony at the trial that some coca leaves are legally imported for processing into cocaine to be used for medical purposes.

Burglars Take $1,659 In Cash,

Burglars took $1,659 in cash and checks from Friedman Brothers Hardware, 17 East Washington Street, Petaluma, yesterday by using store tools to open the safe.

The burglary was discovered at 8 a.m. when employees found the contents of the safe strewn on the floor. Police said a lock had been broken on the rear door.

The burglar alarm failed, according to police, who said it appeared that two or three persons were involved and that fingerprints and footprints were found.

Warrant Issued On Failure To Appear

A bench warrant with bail set at $1,000 was issued yesterday in Marin Superior Court for Juanita Lorraine Litteral, 18, of San Rafael, who failed to appear in court yesterday for sentencing on a felony conviction.

Miss Litteral had earlier admitted possessing a check with intent to defraud another person on April 17. She had first been charged with forging an endorsement on a check stolen by a former mailman.

Gas Tax Use For Rapid Transit Urged

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — Amendment of the state constitution to free gas tax revenue for local rapid transit and pollution control has been proposed by the Constitution Revision Commission.

A 1938 provision of the state constitution restricts use of the revenue to highway purposes. The provision has been under attack by advocates of rapid transit, who hope to tap the revenue for transit.

The amendment recommended by the commission, a 60-member advisory body appointed by the Legislature, will go to the Legislature. If approved by the Legislature — where the highway lobby can be expected to wage a fight to kill the proposal — the amendment would go on the ballot, perhaps by November.

Constitutional amendments require approval by a majority of the voters balloting.

The proposed amendment, voted Thursday by the commission, would allow gas taxes to be used for "the costs of public transit systems except for their operating expenses," and for "the control of environmental pollution caused by motor vehicles."

Tallahassee public swimming pools that were closed after a "wade-in" by blacks.

"On the face of it such policy may seem tragically absurd but such decision is clearly under the law a function and responsibility of the elected public officials and the officers and employes working under them," Carswell wrote.

Since neither blacks nor whites could be served by closed pools, he ruled, there was nothing discriminatory about the city's refusal to open the pools.

After he was named to the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, Carswell last year joined 13 other judges in an unanimous ruling that delayed immediate school desegregation in Mississippi at the request of the Justice Department. The Supreme Court reversed the ruling.

In two early rulings on labor cases, Carswell decided once for management and once for labor.

In 1958 he denied a petition for injunction sought by Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell against a Pensacola, Fla., contractor charged with violating minimum wage, overtime and record-keeping provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938. Carswell held that evidence disclosed the contractor did not intentionally violate the act and there was no reasonable likelihood he would violate it in the future.

In 1959 Carswell agreed that the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers became the bargaining agent for foremen at the Gulf Power Co. when the firm recognized a wage-scale agreement covering the foremen.

Carswell was part of a three-judge panel that stepped out of a natural gas rate reduction case last October because the other two judges owned stock in some of the firms involved. There was no indication that Carswell owned stock in any of the firms.

In a draft case last month Carswell sustained a district court ruling that upheld the reclassification of a Texas man from ministerial deferment to conscientious objector. The man had contended his draft board did not have the authority to reclassify him, but Carswell said he had failed to establish his case.

ty that top defense officials would appear.

The military trial judge, Lt. Col. Reid W. Kennedy, announced that he understood the are not now known and thus generate even more publicity," said Kennedy.

Thus, he asked prosecution and defense attorneys, should the entire proceedings be closed to the public and news media.

"I recognize Lt. Calley's right to a fair and open trial and the public and press will not be excluded unless the defense requests such," he added.

Defense attorneys immediately went into a huddle on the question. Court was recessed for the purpose.

Then the civilian defense attorney, George Latimer, told the court: "Under the Constitution, this calls for a public trial. I'm not going to waive any constitutional rights of this man here."

Kennedy thereupon said the proceedings would be open—except for certain classified information that might be presented.

Meantime, Calley—the 26-year-old slight figure around whom a world of controversy has swirled—sat deep in a chair, smiling and talking quietly with his military defense counsel, Maj. Kenneth Raby.

Raby addressed the court. "This hearing is a nervous strain on the defendant. May he have permission to smoke?" he asked.

"No, he may not," the judge said.

Sierra Club Reasserts Legal Right

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Sierra Club has asserted in an 80-page brief that it has every legal right to stop the government from granting permits for the development of the $35 million Mineral King Ski Resort in the High Sierra.

In a brief filed Monday in U.S. Appeals Court, the club termed "pure sophistry" the argument by government attorneys that the Sierra Club "is a private corporation and, therefore, the interest it advances must be private."

The club asserted it "is a prime spokesman of the public interest in conserving and protecting the natural resources of the Sierra Nevada."

The club said it had 78,000 members and "is the only entity likely to challenge the threatened illegal acts by federal officers."

Mineral King, last major project launched by Walt Disney before his death in 1966, calls for ski facilities near Sequoia National Forest capable of handling 8,500 skiers a day by 1978, housing for 3,310 persons and a restaurant seating 2,300.

The club has argued that a smaller facility, up to 80 acres, is all that is permitted on National Forest land by law. The club obtained a preliminary injunction against the government from U.S. District Court Judge William T. Sweigert last July.

Nixon Welcomes Agnew Back Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Welcoming Vice President Spiro T. Agnew back from an 11-nation Asian tour, President Nixon today proclaimed the journey "an enormously effective trip from the standpoint of the United States."

The chief executive said he feels the "Nixon doctrine" on Asian policy now is far better understood in that part of the world because of Agnew's 36,000-mile flight.

Nixon announced that Agnew will report "at length" on his journey at a meeting Friday of the National Security Council

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy says the world's first deep diving submarine rescue vehicle will be launched Saturday.

The vehicle, to be christened at San Diego, Calif., can operate to depths of 5,000 feet, the Defense Department said.

It is designed to "mate" with a disabled submarine's hatches, take aboard survivors and carry them to safety.

Rohnert Park Acts To Woo New Offices

The Rohnert Park City Council last night offered to give the federal and state governments land at the civic center for a future joint building project.

Hoping to lure government buildings from Santa Rosa, the council offered half of its 12-acre civic center site on the Rohnert Park Expressway and said it had received commitments from Codding Enterprises and Cofego Enterprises to each give six acres of adjoining land.

Martin J. Stone, who owns land near Sonoma State College, said he would be willing to sell land at cost if the governments wished to build there.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said telegrams with the offer of free land would be sent today to the General Services Administration of the federal government and the state Facilities Planning Division.

Callinan said the governments had been under pressure to construct new facilities in the urban renewal section of Santa Rosa, but said he hoped plans would be changed with the offer of the land.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

SUBDIVISION — Approved the concept of Deer Meadow Village, a housing development planned for north of Santa Alicia Drive. The plan includes 22 single-family homes and 369 townhouses on 40 acres.

GYMNASIUM — Asked Callinan to get a report from the Petaluma Board of Education on any plans to build a gymnasium at Rancho Cotate High School.

CHAMBER — Heard a request from the Chamber of Commerce to receive most of the funds collected through the business license tax. Callinan was asked to report on the policy of other cities.

FIRE TRUCK — Heard a report that the new snorkle fire truck would be delivered this week after a two-month delay. Crown Coach Inc. said it would give $2,250 in additional equipment to compensate for the delay.

BUS STOP — Received a donation of $200 from the Lions Club for construction of a bus stop at Commerce Boulevard at the end of Arlen Drive.

Okinawans Strike Over Base Firings

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — A five-day strike of more than 7,000 Okinawan workers at U.S. military bases went into its second day today, and merchants began complaining that business was falling off.

The All-Okinawa Military Employes Trade Union, angered by dismissal of 1,188 Okinawan workers because of a cut in U.S. defense spending, called the strike at midnight Sunday demanding higher severance allowances and longer advance notice for workers to be dismissed.

Members of the "A Sign," a businessmen's Association which says it is losing thousands of dollars a day because U.S. servicemen are confined to base during the strike, lodged a complaint against the union.

Bottle Battle Among Airlines

WASHINGTON (AP) — A battle of the bottle has erupted among the airlines.

Three major competitors for transcontinental traffic—American, Trans World and United—brought the quarrel to light this week by filing with the Civil Aeronautics Board an agreement on cocktail service.

No matter what the other airlines do, they said, they intend to limit the cocktail or highball service on a flight to four ounces of distilled spirits per passenger—two two-ounce drinks apiece.

Before the start of jet service, a decade ago, the argument over the extent of in-flight drinking brought about an Air Transport Association (ATA) agreement, signed by 10 airlines, limiting service to two drinks apiece.

But as traffic and competition increased, the agreement began to spring leaks, and last November it fell apart altogether. "The airlines dropped out of the agreement one by one," an ATA spokesman said.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, ARTHUR "JIM" NETTRO, who passed away JANUARY 20, 1963.

We often sit in silence
No eyes may see us weep;
But forever in our aching hearts,
His memory we will keep.

The call was short, the shock severe.
To part with one we loved so dear;
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he liveth still.

'Tis sweet to know we'll meet again.
Where parting is no more;
And that the one we truly loved,
Has only gone before.

The flowers we lay upon his grave,
May wither and decay;
But love for him who sleeps beneath,
Will never fade away.

A SIGN OF THE TIMES

The eight-foot peace symbol overlooking Highway 101 from Santa Venetia, should become a familiar sight to freeway travelers, since its builder, Robert E. Mertle, intends to leave the sign on his house "until the Vietnam War is over." In addition, Mertle, a candidate for the state Assembly in 1968, plans to light the symbol every Wednesday in observance of the Vietnam Moratorium days. The peace symbol was put up by the Mertle family, 12 Tarrant Court, during the holidays.

Action On Amending Sign Ordinance Taken

Corte Madera town councilmen proceeded last night to open the town's sign ordinance to variance appeals by businessmen seeking nonconforming signing.

The council voted 3-1, with Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff dissenting, to allow variance requests on the sign ordinance. Mayor Edward W. Colthurst was absent.

The council's action to amend the ordinance will get a second hearing and vote at the Feb. 2 meeting and become official 30 days later, if approved.

The town's sign ordinance has been in effect for about two years and until now has prohibited variance requests. The change was recommended by a joint committee including the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce and local businessmen.

Wagstaff said he opposed the change because it would expose the town's planning commission and board of adjustments to frequent pressures to "ease up on the rules."

"I feel the success of the town is directly related to the iron-clad ordinance," he said. "There will be many people in the future on the commissions who won't want to be strict when it comes to enforcing the ordinance."

Councilman Byron D. White agreed with Wagstaff, but said he had "complete confidence in the town's commissions" to study each case and make wise decisions.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

Fire Engine — Awarded a $17,675 contract to the Howe Equipment Co. of Sacramento to provide a new fire engine.

reappointed -- Reappointed Raymond C. Nann and Lawrence Elleson to the town's Sanitary commission. Their terms expired Dec. 31.

inventor -- Approved a permit to allow Roland C. Janson, 114 Granda Drive, to use his garage to perform inventive work in the dental, optic and related fields. Vote was 3-1 with White dissenting.

flood study -- Appointed the town's public work's committee and City Mgr. Ronald L. Usher to set up guidelines for selecting the consulting firm which will conduct a flood control survey approved at the Jan. 5 meeting.

letter of praise -- Heard a letter signed by 69 residents of Marin Village praising the town's decision to hire a consulting firm to study flood problems.

public hearing -- Set Feb. 16 at 7:30 p.m. as the date and time of a public hearing on the prezoning to light industrial of the site of the former Indian Valley Lumber Co.

election -- Adopted resolution asking Marin County to conduct the town's municipal election in conjunction with the county's April 14 election. Terms of three councilmen, Holmes S. Norville, Wagstaff and Colthurst, expired.

Bank Cards Can Pay For Taxes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Most of the three million BankAmericard holders in California now can use their credit card accounts for paying federal and state income taxes, BankAmericard officials report.

Special checks, being mailed this week, will be good for amounts up to $500, but a cardholder must obtain telephone authorization from BankAmericard for amounts over $100 before sending the check directly to the appropriate tax collector, a Bank of America spokesman said Monday.

The card holder will be charged a 4 per cent onetime fee for the tax loan, the bank said. If he chooses to extend his repayment, the regular 1½ per cent monthly finance charge of the credit card will apply.

Officer Cleared In Neglect Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The police commission has cleared officer Rodney Williams of neglect of duty charges.

Williams faced the charges after a liquor store owner complained the officer, a Negro who heads the Police Department's Community Relations Bureau, did not attempt to capture two holdup men.

Williams, who was off duty at the time, said there was nothing he could do since the men had already escaped.

San Anselmo Second House Plan Vetoed

Single family housing should remain just that, the San Anselmo Planning Commission said last night.

Commissioners unanimously opposed a suggestion by Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum to allow a second dwelling on single-family lots as a means of providing low-cost housing, reported Asst. City Engineer John T. O'Rourke.

A city committee has been working several weeks on ways to abate existing duplexes and second dwellings in San Anselmo's one-family districts.

The commission also continued discussion of an ambiguously-worded zoning section dealing with setbacks and lot splits, and agreed to set a public hearing on proposed revisions as soon as it can be legally advertised. O'Rourke said. The section is unclear on whether outbuildings can be built on the property line if set back 60 feet or more from the front property line.

The commission also made minor changes in reviewing the proposed sign ordinance and set further discussion for the Feb. 2 meeting.

Quiz Show Master Hal March Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hal March, the actor who found fame as master of ceremonies of the television quiz show "$64,000 Question" in the 1950s, is dead at 49.

March succumbed to pneumonia Monday at the University of California Medical Center. Last November, in the same hospital, surgeons had removed his right lung because of cancer.

Anastasia Case Ruling Awaited

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP) — The West German Supreme Court has set Feb. 17 for a ruling on an appeal by a 69-year-old woman to be recognized as the Grand Duchess Anastasia, daughter of Czar Nicholas II of Russia.

The former Anna Anderson, now married to John E. Manaham, a former University of Virginia history professor, has been trying for years to establish herself as a member of the slain royal family.

Her appeal from an adverse ruling by a lower court received a seven-hour hearing in the Supreme Court Monday.

Ross Trustees Set Financial Session

The Ross School District board last night agreed to discuss district finances at a special meeting set for Feb. 2 at 8 p.m. in Ross School.

At the meeting the board will hear a report from the district's financial study committee which has been reviewing district needs and revenue for the past three months.

The Ross School District board also:

NEGOTIATION—Appointed Supt. Thomas A. Anderson to represent the board in salary negotiation with district teachers.

CUSTODIANS—Accepted the resignation of William Doyle, part-time custodian and agreed to hire Richard Mills for the job at $2 an hour, 20 hours a week.

VOLUNTEERS—Voted to recognize volunteers as employees so they can qualify for workmen's compensation insurance.

Span Bus System To Be Considered

Specifications for the 132-bus system planned by the Golden Gate Bridge District will be considered by the district's joint transportation and finance-auditing committee at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at the toll plaza offices.

Also on the agenda is a report from the district's financial consultants, J. Barth & Co., and a proposed contract from Okomoto-Liskamm Inc., San Francisco design consultants, who have been invited to submit a proposal to guide the long-range master plan being drawn for the district by Kaiser Engineers.

Budget Slightly Down For Tam High District

A preliminary 1970-71 budget totaling $9,430,882 was presented to the Tamalpais High School District board last night, a drop from the total 1969 - 70 budget of $9,467,208. (Another Tamalpais High School District story, page 1.)

The budget, business manager Frank Cassou said, includes $7,932,871 in projected income and $1,507,011 in reserves. The reserve figure was down from this year's anticipated reserve of $1,730,639.

Cassou forecast income of $6,842,621 from local property taxes, a 6 per cent rise from last year. Projected state aid would total $929,850, federal income $122,000, and other sources $30,000.

Board members were gratified to get the preliminary figures weeks earlier than in past years, giving more time to work on budget details.

Trustees argued at the end of the meeting over sabbatical leaves requested by 18 faculty members and ended by tabling the requests.

Trustee David D. Ring said sabbaticals are a fringe benefit, and should be discussed along with salary negotiations. However, the board agreed to hold a special meeting as soon as possible to discuss the requests.

The Tamalpais High School

SUPERINTENDENT — Appointed John Zenger, a vice president of Syntex Corporation, and Paul Selman, superintendent of Sacramento Unified School District, to a selection committee to screen applicants for permanent superintendent of the district. The committee is headed by Hobart Burns, president of San Jose State College.

REDWOOD — Approved an extension for the rest of the school year of the "academic campus expansion" plan at Redwood High School which allows seniors to leave the campus for study connected with government classes. The program was approved for a trial from September to Christmas vacation and has drawn favorable comment from students and teachers with no complaint from the community, Principal Donald Kreps said.

Freighter Crew Lands Safely

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — Twenty crew members of the Norwegian freighter Thordis Presthus landed at Morehead City Monday after being picked up from lifeboats by the Navy destroyer Taussig, earlier in the day.

The crew members—including two women—had abandoned their vessel after an explosion in the engine room started a fire which raged through the ship and killed two crewmen. Eight crewmen remained aboard and helped Coast Guardmen from the cutter Chilula fight the fire.

The Thordis Presthus was being slowly towed to Morehead City from the spot of the explosion 85 miles southeast of Wilmington, N.C.

Those In Need Suffer From Welfare Fraud

A panel made up of district attorneys, a county counsel, and the state welfare department counsel last week reported that one-tenth of the money paid out by California in aid to families with needy children is collected fraudulently.

The panel, appointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, reported $59 million received fraudulently out of a total of $590 million paid in the program.

It said fraud was present in 15.75 per cent of 1,213 cases surveyed from 52 of California's 58 counties. Most common fraud was failing to report income, which was found in 8.74 per cent of the cases.

THE FINDINGS are not too surprising. The aid to needy children program lends itself to fraud .

The investigative panel made a series of recommendations for tightening up. Among them were these:

"Pressing disciplinary and/or legal action against case workers and others who deliberately or negligently overlook illegal situations or who aid and abet in the commission of welfare fraud."

Requiring monthly details on income as a pre-requisite of welfare aid.

Instilling in case workers "a sophisticated awareness of the possibility that they may be deceived."

WHENEVER ANY investigation of the distribution of welfare funds is made, it brings a chorus of protest — not from those who are welfare recipients, but from employees in state and county welfare departments.

This one was no exception. It was criticized before it was even completed, by the Social Workers Union.

The union charged the investigation was undertaken to set the stage for punitive welfare legislation.

It was all political, claimed the union, a trick by Governor Reagan, who appointed the panel.

The membership of the panel does not look political. It was made up of both Democrats and Republicans: Dist. Atty. John M. Price of Sacramento County, Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson of San Mateo County, Deputy Dist. Atty. Richard N. Parslow Jr. of Orange County, County Counsel Ray T. Sullivan Jr. of Riverside County, and Rudolf H. Michels, counsel for the state social welfare department.

ROBERT MARTIN, state social welfare director, in releasing the report, stressed that "the majority of people on welfare, the statistics show, have nothing to do with fraud of this kind."

Of course they don't, and it is they who suffer when the money goes to crooks and chiselers.

If the discovery of this large fraud results — as the Social Workers Union contends — in punitive legislation, it will again be the deserving poor who suffer.

The responsibility lies with the social workers themselves. They are charged with investigating the cases. If they allow 10 percent of the funds to be paid to those who are not entitled to them, they are not doing their job as well as they should

As director Marin remarked: "If you're giving to the undeserving while there are deserving who aren't receiving, that situation must be corrected."

Behr Has High-Powered Pro To Manage Senate Campaign

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The Senate candidacy of former County Supervisor Peter H. Behr has something going for it in the hiring of political pro Sanford Weiner to run the campaign.

Weiner has racked up a hot winning run, with successful campaigns for San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein, Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-11th District, and Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif. He hasn't won them all—just about 80 per cent of some 60 campaigns in Southern California.

He also worked in 1966 as an adviser to George Christopher's unsuccessful campaign against Ronald Reagan.

Unlike most pros in the campaign management business, Weiner works both sides of the political road, and worked on Alan Cranston's campaign against Max Rafferty. In that campaign, of course, he was not the only one to switch.

"THE SINKING of the Lollipop" by Rodney G. Minott told the story of McCloskey's defeat of Shirley Temple Black on her way to Congress, a story that offers some idea of the kind of campaign that may be waged for Behr.

Minott, who worked in the McCloskey campaign, wrote that the candidate and his brand of politics did "not fit the usual mold, and the rein lies his strength.

"The campaign was also a model for a new type of political organization," wrote Minott. "One can safely predict that increasingly over the next decade similar efforts will find a professional such as Weiner directing media projection while most of the rest of the organization is gloriously amateur. It is the politics of participation in the age of technological affluence," he wrote.

It also sounds like a typical Behr campaign, whether for office or a conservation issue.

"I LIKE to think the effort represents the campaigns of the future," Minott quoted Weiner as saying about the McCloskey campaign.

Minott also offered a sketch of Weiner: "His lengthy telephone conversations, his self-assurance, his proclivity for not explaining any action more than necessary, his tendency to talk monosyllabically, economizing on words, and his gruff and defensive exterior, confused the amateurs. There was also his sense of humor. Amateurs in politics were inclined to be deadly serious about everything."

This also sounds like a typical Behr volunteer.

THE BIG unanswered question is whether Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, will enter the Senate race. We would have guessed two weeks ago that he definitely would not consider going for the seat being vacated by Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, but we're not so sure now.

One advantage of running for the Senate, Bagley told us, "is that it keeps you alive and available in Sacramento in 1974—for whatever is on the political scene statewide."

Bagley said he anticipated "total party support" if he chose to run, but it seems likely he would face a bitter primary fight from some Republicans who declined to contest his Assembly seat.

This prospect of a bitter GOP primary is the only thing that keeps alive whatever slim hopes Democrats may have for victory.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

It's The Consumer Who Always Pays

Backyard burning is now banned in Marin County; the disposal companies who have increased their pick-up rates and their business are very pleased with the status quo. Anti-pollktion measures are a blessing for the oil companies. Cost of gas for your will go up 2 cents per gallon. Please note: Nobody asks the gas companies to take a 2 cent profit cut per gallon.

Ten months ago the State Public Utilities Commission gave P.G.& E. a $6.7 million increase which came out of your pocket. The commission now gave it an additional $16 million raae increase, which will, once again, come out of your pocket. P.G. & E. earnings have gone up, up, and up, but meanwhile your dollar buys less at the grocery store.

When are we going to stop being a nation of sheep being led to economic slaughter by the Judas goat hiding behind the shield of public utilities?

Model UN Trip Deserves Support

Last night's (Jan. 14) I-J contained a routine article covering a meeting of the San Rafael School Board. The article stated that the board would discuss the much-discussed statement by member Carl Brown. Further along the article mentioned, among other things, that they would wait before deciding whether or not to award the magnificent sum of $150 to help send a group of Terra Linda High students to represent the school in the Model U.N. in Washington, D. C.

It would seem to me that the people who are so concerned about young people that they constantly fill this page with letters concerning discipline and morals might try a positive approach. Here is a group of young people trying to accomplish a worthwhile goal. Such young people deserve all the support this community can provide.

After all, consider what we spend on the troublemakers.

How Much Needed For Cancer Effort?

I wish to respond to your Jan. 2 article reporting Rep. William S. Mailliard's comments about the Candlelighters' plea for more federal funds for cancer research.

Rep. Mailliard asserted that the Candlelighters cannot say what amount of money is needed to "do the job." Our reply is Enough! Enough money to support the work of the 19 clinical research centers whose efforts may cease due to federal cuts. Enough to accelerate progress in the vitally Enough to counter the 10 per cent inflationary bite in biomedical research. Enough to ultimately prevent and control cancer.

Many experts, including those of the American Cancer Society, agree that enough is about $300 million per year. Reports indicate that President Nixon's budget director feels that enough is $173 million for 1970. Which authority do you accept?

Rep. Mailliard also remarked that private resources provide most of the money for research. His information is outdated. America's cancer research effort depends on the federal government for at least two-thirds of its total funds. This is why the Nixon Administration's proposed expenditure cuts can have such a crippling effect on research.

Toll Plaza Cost Not As Alleged

Dale Luehring, manager of the Golden Gate Bridge District, has informed me that my recently published letter supporting the increased price of commute books was in error when I stated that the district has set aside $11 million for a new toll plaza.

The correct amount, he said, was $3.2 million, slated for a new southbound roadway bypassing the present buildings and for toll plaza improvements.

The correct figure should be made public. At the same time, the point made remains valid: that improvements benefitting the auto should be deferred or deleted, and this sum should be transferred to the sorely strained transit account . . .

History demonstrates that every improvement for autos reduces the ridership for transit. When the directors are planning to spend millions for transit, they should not at the same time take steps which will increase losses in the very system they wish to encourage.

Who Took Marin Out Of BART?

In your good paper last night (Jan. 8) you said that "it was Jack McCarthy who introduced the bill to create the Bay Area Rapid Transit District—of which Marin at its inception was very much a part." If Jack McCarthy is to be remembered as one of the forward looking legislators who could see that BART was the only answer to our commute problems then we should also give a little publicity to the horse and buggy minded individuals who will eventually be responsible for the millions of extra dollars it will cost us to join BART—as we most certainly will.

Presently we in Marin are having a great time trying to establish a bus and/or ferry system between Marin and San Francisco. If and when this proposed new system is in operation it will then be discovered that our problems have not been solved at all. Automobile traffic on the Golden Gate Bridge will be as heavy as ever and the downtown San Francisco congestion will not be relieved at all. The great majority of commuters who use private cars to and from work will continue to do so and will not change their ways to use a transportation system which was outmoded many years ago . . .

Some day people will be writing to the I-J to ask why we weren't a part of BART so why not start now and let us know exactly why. Who is responsible? . . .

ANNE WEST

(Marin County was part of BART at its inception. The county board of supervisors withdrew Marin after Golden Gate Bridge District directors decreed that a second deck to carry trains could not be put on the bridge.—Editor.)

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Weeks of foul weather this past summer proved particularly disastrous for innkeepers on the New Jersey and Long Island shores. One was overheard lamenting, "The rain not only kept all my rooms empty, but now the whole place is too wet to burn."

A tipsy guest accosted his hostess to enquire, "Do lemons have legs?" "Lemons with legs!" scoffed the hostess. "You must be out of your mind." "Oh, dear," sighed the guest. "In that case I'm afraid I've just squeezed your canary into my martini!"

MARQUIS CHILDS

It's Far Cry From Gettysburg To Nixon's 'State Of The Union'

WASHINGTON — Abraham Lincoln wrote the Gettysburg Address on pieces of scratch paper while on the way to the dedication of the cemetery for the fallen dead. It is a far cry from that simple time to the communications apparatus in the White House that projects and weighs and measures every presidential word and monitors every presidential appearance.

In his retreat in the executive office building across from the White House, President Nixon is writing on a legal-size yellow pad his own thoughts for what will be the most important speech of his presidency thus far. This is the State of the Union message to be delivered to Congress on Jan. 22.

When the President has walked across the narrow street to the executive office building and shuts himself in his office, his privacy is inviolate, with only his personal secretary of long years of faithful service, Rosemary Woods, privileged to intrude.

THE SPEECH as presently projected will be a sharp break with traditional State of the Union messages. It will anticipate not just 1971 or '72 but 1976. In three areas—the environment, inflation and crime — the message will concentrate on what must be done to prepare the nation for the beginning of a third century.

That Richard Nixon anticipates marking that historic moment as President, and that he expects to travel on July 4, 1976, to Boston and Philadelphia to inaugurate the 200th year expositions in the rival "cradles of liberty" goes almost without saying. It is a measure of shrewd public relations skill that the anticipation of a brave, new century should be linked in an almost-taken-for-granted fashion with the man at the center of power.

SO IMPRESSIVE is the communications apparatus and so important is its influence that the Nixon presidency is in many ways a new kind of presidency. Mr. Nixon is the first president to understand the uses and abuses of television in the television era. Joe McGinniss' book, "The Selling of the President 1968," may in its selectivity be a distortion of the Nixon TV campaign. But, as a picture of the techniques used to enlarge, and enhance, and perhaps even camouflage a candidate, it is an extraordinary revelation of politics in the age of the giant eye and the tube that holds its millions in bemused subjection.

Ten of the White House assistants are out of advertising or the news media at a variety of levels. Three of the most trusted lieutenants are from the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Agency. Raymond J. Price, Jr., one of the President's principal speech composers, was an editorial writer on the New York Herald Tribune. James Keogh was high in the hierarchy of Time, Inc. Although he is not on the White House roster, his assignment being the United States Information Agency, Frank Shakespeare, a former CBS executive, is a master of the TV political technique as "The Selling of the President" amply documents. His word carries weight in the White House aside from his direction of the selling of America overseas.

THE POINT IS that these men in the communications apparatus have developed out of their own background and experience a highly sensitive understanding of public attitudes and reactions and what can be expected to come from any given move. The President's rare scheduled televised news conferences are productions as carefully planned as a Bob Hope special. Mr. Nixon in his occasional impromptu meetings with the White House press has not had the TV cameras present.

In this picture Vice President Spiro Agnew has an important part, attesting to Mr. Nixon's political shrewdness in selecting him for No. 2. By his attacks on the media, Agnew threw the fear of God into the television hierarchy. A comic star helping to plan a comic hour before the cameras was told firmly by the network hierarchy that there was to be nothing derogatory about the President or Vice President. On his Asian swing, Agnew has had far more coverage than any previous vice president could have expected.

The words that come off that yellow pad will not be the final words. The whole production will be combed over by the communications apparatus. This is not Gettysburg and, after all, Lincoln didn't have to cope with television.

Big Powers May Ponder Roles In Biafra Tragedy

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

As international concern mounts for the future of hundreds of thousands of starving Biafrans, the big powers may well ponder their own roles in the tragedy of Biafra.

The Soviet Union supplied the Nigerian federal government with rockets, trucks, the latest in automatic rifles, MIGs and Ilyushin jets.

Egyptian mercenaries flew the planes.

Britain supplied mortars, artillery and armored cars.

France supplied Biafra with arms and ammunition and the moral support of President Charles de Gaulle. Other weapons reached the Biafrans through Gabon, the Ivory Coast and Portugal.

THE UNITED STATES played a passive role except to donate airplanes for the mercy airlift to Biafra.

Among Nigeria's black African neighbors, Gabon, the Ivory Coast, Tanzania and Zambia recognized Biafra as an independent state. Others sided with the Nigerian federal government, less out of love for a unified Nigeria than out of fear that a successful Biafra would lead to fragmentation of their own states.

The question then arises whether the war would have ended sooner without outside interference and by whom.

IN ANY EVENT, there can be no doubt that 30 months of savage bloodletting has hardened tribal hatreds and left unsettled political, emotional and geographical differences that started the war in the first place.

Britain, as the former colonial power in Nigeria, vacillated between sympathy for the starving Biafrans and fear of losing its foothold in black Africa's largest nation.

Russia sought a foothold to take the place of the position of influence it lost in Ghana.

De Gaulle justified his pro-Biafran stand by his standing support for the right of self-determination of populations in racially or linguistically mixed countries.

It was the same stand which led him to sympathize with Katanga when it sought to break away from the Congo and which won him the enmity of the Canadian government when he supported the separatists of Quebec.

It was at this behest that the two former French colonies, Gabon and the Ivory Coast, recognized Biafra's independence.

MANY DIPLOMATS in Paris now see the victory of the Nigerian federal government as a defeat for France at the hands of Britain in their African conflict of interests.

To round out the agonizing story of Biafra, its leader, Gen. Odumegwu Ojukwu, earlier had opposed secession, demanding instead of confederation of states, each with a large portion of autonomy. As a graduate of Oxford, he regarded himself as an amateur soldier who much preferred Shakespeare and his own poetry.

Simple Solution To Unrest: Sell Planes To Keep The Peace

WASHINGTON — The secret to a strong diplomatic posture these days is to have a healthy arms-export sales policy. No underdeveloped country is interested in having a major power for a friend unless fighter planes go along with it.

One of the most active major powers in arms sales these days is France, which has just announced it sold 50 Mirage fighters to Libya.

Pierre la Guerre, who is director of the French Peace Through War Equipment Commission, told me:

"France has been unjustly criticized for selling French fighters to Libya, but we feel this gesture will help bring about peace in the Middle East.."

"HOW CAN YOU bring about a peaceful settlement if you give Libya airplanes?"

"The key to peace," Mr. La Guerre said, "is trust. We have to get the Arabs to trust us. They will only trust us if we give them fighter planes to use against the Israelis."

"But won't that heat up the war?"

"Au contraire. Once the Arabs have the planes, we can bring our influence on them not to use them."

"You mean, if you didn't give them the planes, then they wouldn't listen to you if you asked them to find a peaceful settlement to the Middle East?"

"EXACTEMENT," Monsieur La Guerre said. "We do not fool ourselves that we will have great influence just because we sell Libya 50 fighter planes. We must also sell Iraq fighter planes and Sudan fighter planes and Saudi Arabia fighter planes.

"We must win the Arabs' confidence by selling them as many planes as they can afford."

"Why don't you give the Israelis fighter planes, too? I understand you have 50 of them which they already paid for."

"Nothing would please us more than to give Israel the 50 planes they ordered and paid for. But if we did this, we would lose our influence with the Arab world, and then the Arabs would never agree to a peaceful solution to the crisis."

"YOU'RE NOT giving the Arabs planes because Israel sailed five embargoed missile boats out of Cherbourg's harbor without the French government's permission are you?"

"We would never withhold planes because the Israelis pulled a dirty sneaky trick like that. The French government may be opportunistic, but it's not petty. Our main concern is that if we don't sell planes to the Arabs, the Arabs will buy their planes from the Soviets. Does the Free World want the Arabs to have French planes or Soviet planes to keep the peace in the Middle East?"

"That's a difficult question," I said.

"Every plane we sell the Arabs is a blow to the Russians. When Libya announced it was buying French fighters, the Soviets realized we had struck a blow for peace."

"I THOUGHT the French had an embargo on arms to the Middle East."

"We do. The embargo is on countries who are directly involved in the conflict. Libya and Iraq have nothing to do with the fighting."

"But Libya doesn't have any fighter pilots. What are they going to do with 50 fighter planes?"

"They can trade them for French tanks and rocket launchers we just sold to Yemen."

AN EDUCATOR'S VIEW

Dumke In The Hot Seat But Clings To Position

By JOHN W. GILBAUGH
Professor of Education
San Jose State College

One of the most maligned men in California higher education is the chancellor of the California State Colleges, Dr. Glenn S. Dumke. And he may become the focal point of a major political issue prior to the November general election.

Some observers believe that Dr. Dumke, who was appointed during the Brown administration, has impeded progress of translating campaign promises into performance by the Reagan administration.

Throughout his eight-year tenure at the helm of the 19-campus state college system, the embattled chancellor has enjoyed little freedom from widespread criticism. Many of the local campus senates created by Dumke subsequently supported resolutions expressing "no confidence" and calling for his resignation.

A SYSTEM-WIDE referendum was conducted in January, 1969, by the California State College Academic Senate to determine the level of faculty and administrator confidence in Dumke. Sixty-five percent (5,986) of the faculty members voted. Of them, 3,743 (62.7 per cent) supported the no-confidence statement which called for Dumke's resignation. And 2,227 (37.3 per cent) supported him. An additional number of faculty members who opposed Dumke abstained from voting because they felt that such a referendum was inappropriate.

Prior to his appointment as chancellor of the California State Colleges, Dumke served several hectic years as president of San Francisco State College, where he introduced the management system that turned over to the faculties many of the prerogatives traditionally assigned to administrators who had been held accountable for their decisions.

Under administrative control by the faculty, San Francisco State College achieved a world-wide image by the close of 1968, as being the ultimate in chaos. And drastic, dictatorial measures had to be imposed to restore ordere. Though Dumke's presidency at San Francisco State was marked by severe turbulence, he, nevertheless, was appointed by a newly organized and inexperienced board of state college trustees to head the California system.

THE MODEL for faculty management which had failed at San Francisco State soon appeared on each of the other college campuses within the system. Those college presidents and other administrators who resisted the surrender of administrative functions to the faculties were either sacked or they quit in despair. Among those who fell before the onslaught were: Dr. Arnold Joyal Fresno; Dr. John T. Wahlquist, San Jose; Dr. Guy West, Sacramento; Dr. Fred Harcelroad, Hayward. And the presidents at Chico, Los Angeles, and Long Beach reportedly retired prematurely.

It is significant that the faculties who have been given unbridled control under the Dumke system of management have been unable to maintain the high level of campus stability that was evident in the system it displaced.

But Chancellor Dumke continues to weather the storm of opposition. With a reportedly divided board of trustees, he skillfully manages to stay afloat.

WHAT CONFUSES more than a few observers is the gulf between promise and performance. Take, for example, a statement made on Jan. 8, by Dr. Dumke, widely reported in the news media: "As long as I am chancellor, the California State Colleges will not be used by any political group—right or left—for its own partisan goals."

That statement is reduced to lip service in the light of a widely reported speech made by Dr. James O'Connor, a member of the economics faculty at San Jose State College. According to the Santa Cruz Sentinel, while addressing a group of between 400 and 500 students at UC, Santa Cruz, last May 20, O'Connor stated:

"The ruling class in the United States is no longer fit to rule because they no longer have any ideas. They have no concept of how to use society to advance human values . . . We need a socialist blueprint for the future that will end the United States as an imperialist and capitalistic country. . ."

Within the last month, Dr. O'Connor has been granted life-long tenure at San Jose State College.

For American Indian, Art Was His Everyday Life

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

DOLL FACE—A Hopi Katchina doll wearing a replica of a ceremonial costume is one of the Indian art objects on display at the College of Marin gallery this month.

To an American Indian a fetish was not a hang-up on such things as bare feet, leather clothing, hand made crafts or natural foods. Those things were simply a way of life and a fetish, which was part of it, was a carved object he kept because (primarily) it was believed to protect its owner.

The current vogue for adopting things Indian leaves out much. With the real article there is a much deeper and richer meaning to be had, as experienced in this month's College of Marin gallery exhibit which taps Indian culture from the east coast to Alaska through antique and contemporary artifacts.

Beading, in particular, reaches exquisite levels in the involved designs of a large Chippewa shoulder bag. And other beautifully worked gloves, moccasins and bags also go much beyond the ordinary.

Carving extends from the tiny fetishes to a completely worked wooden paddle and an Eskimo walrus tooth carved into a cribbage board. Baskets include unusual quill stitched birch bark and several ornamented with protruding feathers.

In style, it is often difficult to tell the old from the new as Indian motifs are often constant. All the jewelry displayed is contemporary. Yet in a piece such as the silver and turquoise Navajo necklace, the designs relate directly to original styles. Here, the blossoms along the sides stem from flowers embroidered on Spanish uniforms. The lower crescent shape is adapted from a Spanish bridle ornament, itself borrowed from an original Moorish design.

Newness is perhaps most obvious in Maria Martinez' work. The artist from San Ildefonso Pueblo is the most famous of all modern Indian potters and the dulled patterns on her gleaming blackware have an undeniable contemporary, if still Indian, feeling.

The exhibit, which maintains a high degree of interest even at its most predictable level, was loaned by Yah-a-teh Gift Shop in Sausalito, Sally's Band Box in San Anselmo and by collectors Fritz Baldauf, Joan Davlin, Marianne Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Art Hiscock, Kathleen Houck, Ann L. Jack and Sarah Trube. It is open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and evenings between 6:30 and 10, with special school tours arranged by contacting Mrs. Jack in the college art department.

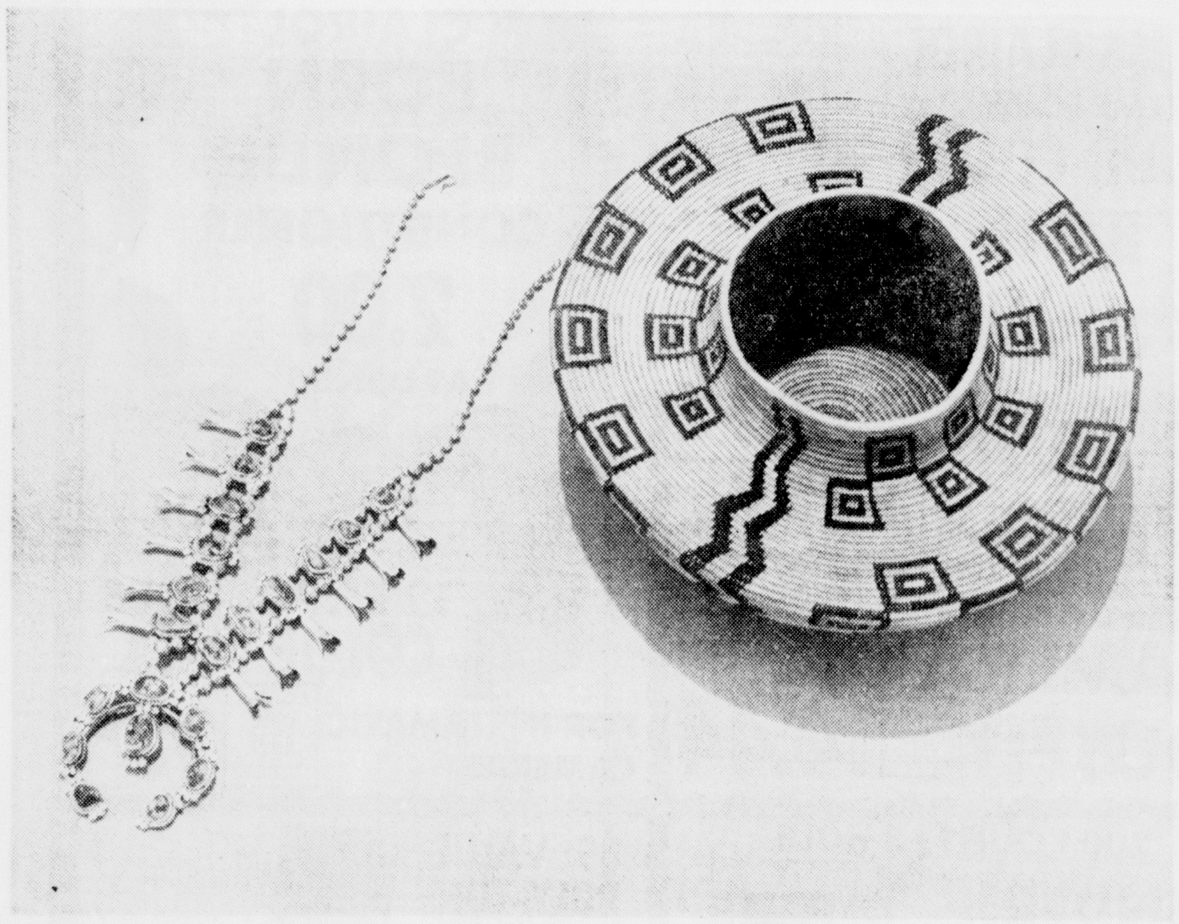

STITCHED — An unusual work of art is this quill stitched birch bark basket from New York state.

BASKET DISPLAY—Resting on a dazzler type Navajo rug are a collection of assorted baskets and a grinding bowl.

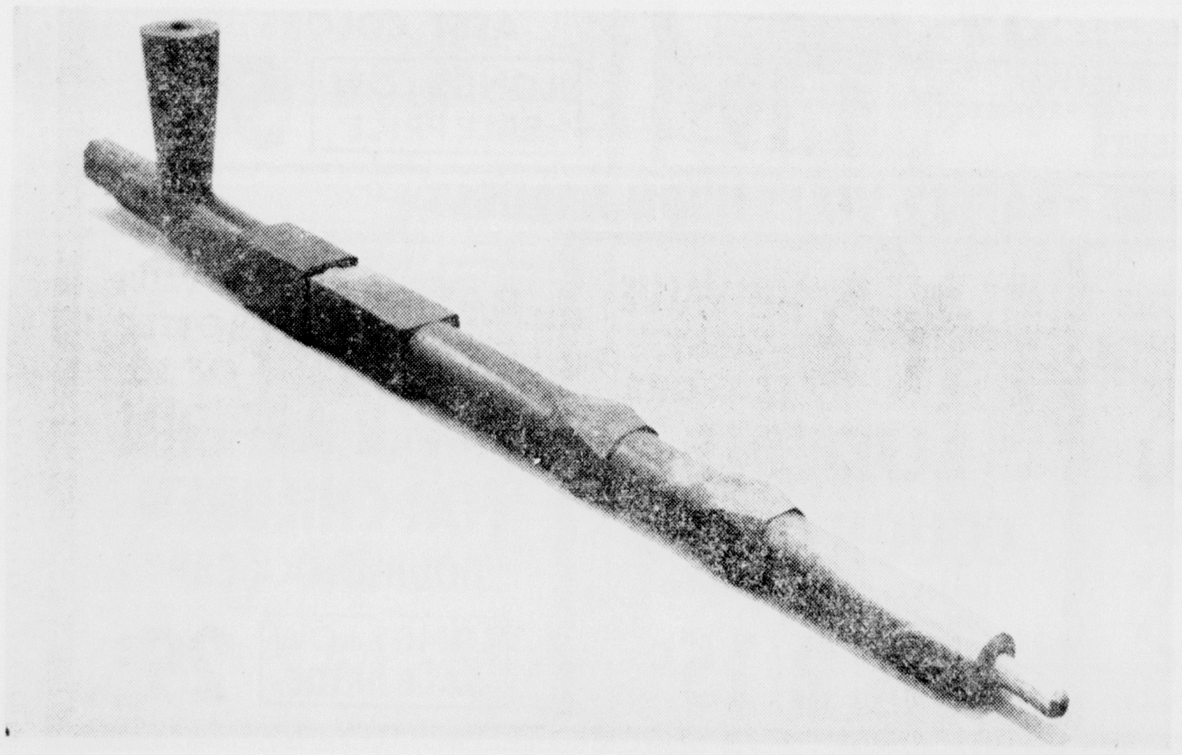

HOUSE DISPLAY — A bowl, tomahawk and black and white points are shown in a setting with a model house.

COLORFUL COMBINATION — A silver and turquoise Navajo necklace and mono basket make an artistic pattern.

CERAMIC ART — The art of a ceramic bowl is displayed against the strong pattern of a Navajo rug.

STONE CARVING — When a Sioux peach pipe is carved from stone it becomes a work of art.

ASSORTED HANDICRAFT — Gathered in one display are a Navajo rug, Tulare and Tlingit baskets, a Zuni owl and Hupa hats.

Astrology Hobby That's Fun, Useful

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Kathleen Ksanda finds her hobby of astrology is fun and useful in many social situations, such as the Sausalito Woman's Club program she planned for Thursday.

But she also takes the subject seriously — at least up to a point — and talks about it with great enthusiasm.

First a word as to who she is. Kay is an artist, teacher and civic leader. Divorced, she recently moved to Lucas Valley with her three children Cecy, 16, Charlie, 11, and Colleen, 9.

Kay is dynamic, fun-loving, extroverted, friendly and concerned, especially about young people, with whom she has remarkable rapport.

"I'm very much a member of the establishment," she confesses, "but I'm able to talk to young people, including hippies, who are going overboard for drugs and the occult.

"I HAVE BEEN interested in metaphysics and the occult ever since I was a child and have studied extensively in this field. I've found the emphasis must be on the spiritual in life — yes, Christianity actually. It really works. I've been able to show some of the these young hippies that there can be dangers in the occult and that there are other and better ways of getting high than on drugs.

"The answer is through Christ," she stresses, "and I teach these young people practical parapsychology.

"I discovered they can be reached when I taught metaphysics in 1968 in a special class. It was set up at Glen Ellen by the noted astrologist Ambrose Hollingsworth, who was responsible for my first learning about astrology when I met him about seven years ago.

"The class was composed of a group varying from 175 to 300 18-year-olds and over, primarily hippies with college background."

Kay's beliefs concerning astrology, which is increasing enormously nowadays in popularity, are interesting.

"When I realized astrology was the one occult subject I knew nothing about, I said, 'OK, I'll learn it.' We should never say no to anything unless we ourselves prove it is full of hogwash.

"I had my chart done and discovered it was a valuable tool for understanding myself. No, I can't live my life day by day according to it. I believe the stars impel but don't compel.

"IT'S UNFORTUNATE," Kay noted, "that the field is full of phonies and charlatans in it for the money, but I'm delighted now that many highly educated people of irreproachable background are involved in research on non-physical phenomena.

"I myself," Kay explained, "have met many such people in the Bay Area of the highest integrity. They are employed in top professional fields and have no interest in gaining money through their psychic gifts. They are Christ-like people. If they can be of help, you can't pay them — they say 'pass it on.'

"You know there's a great deal of research on ESP (extra-sensory perception) going on in universities," she pointed out. "Dr. Charles Tart of Stanford is studying a vibration created through prayer.

"Another person making investigations is Dr. Shafica Karagulla, a psychiatrist possessing a long list of professional titles and honors, who has given up her practice to study people with psychic gifts."

Kay's own background is fascinating. Its keystone is art.

For three and a half years she attended the University of Washington, where she was art editor of the campus humor magazine and the yearbook, and then studied at the Art Students League in New York City two and a half years.

AT PRESENT she is self-employed as an artist for Marguerite Rubel Manufacturers in San Francisco and does spot teaching in art in elementary schools in Lucas Valley and San Rafael.

From 1965 to 1968 she taught art in the Sausalito School District, where her classes were notable for correlation of art with many of the other subjects in the curriculum. Before that she taught art at St. Hilary's School in Tiburon and the Sausalito Nursery School.

Before becoming an art teacher Kay was a staff artist in San Francisco for the fashion newspaper "Women's Wear Daily" from 1951 to 1963, and one year taught a class in illustration at the Academy of Art in San Francisco.

Her first job as a commerical artist was with the advertising department of Bloomingdales in New York City.

Kay has spent a major part of her energies in community services, the most outstanding one being the organization in 1969 of the first Sausalito Art Show that resulted in four continuing yearly shows. This success awakened the dormant Sausalito Art Festival, which she and other members of the show committee and other Sausalito artists had helped to establish, and it is now a yearly event recognizd throughout the Bay Area.

She has been a board member of the Sausalito Woman's Club, the Sausalito Citizens Council and the Sausalito Nursery School, as well as the Sausalito Art Festival, and served on the Save Our Shores committee and Committee of 100, an investigative teaching technique commission in Sausalito.

She is a member of the Society of Western Artists and a former member of the Marin Society of Artists.

Interested in drama ever since her college days, Kay has also followed this as a hobby and gained an enviable reputation as producer and director of shows.

She has written, directed and produced many major entertainment events for the Sausalito Nursery School, some of them Woman's Club and the Sausalito for fund-raising purposes.

KATHLEEN KSANDA finds her astrology hobby very useful in many ways, including club programs and entertaining. One popular idea is putting fortunes based on astrology into cookies and cakes. She holds her own Taurus signs of the Zodiac and one of the cakes containing fortunes that will be featured at the Sausalito Woman's Club luncheon Thursday.

LATEST FASHIONS from Italian designers show the pendulum of style has swung again, and the body is covered, rather than bare. Valentino of Rome shows a long length in a bright yellow dress reaching to the bottom of the calf, with black trousers and a silk blouse for spring, at left. At right, cream and tan make up the weave in a matching gown and trousers, also by Valentino, with a face-forming hat in toast.

Italian Designers Bring Down Hems But Leave Mini Choice For Spring

By LEONORA DODSWORTH

ROME (AP) — Italian designer Federico Forquet did a repeat today of Christian Dior's new look of 1947.

There, once again, were the once familiar calf-length suits with their tight little jackets jutting into peplums. Some jackets were fitted, then flared to hip-length like hacking jackets.

But unlike Dior, Forquet decided to have it both ways by showing midsuits whose skirts took off to reveal matching little boy shorts.

This possibility to wear long skirts one day, short the next or even short and long together in the same costume — is the newest aspect of 1970 fashions.

LONG SKIRTS are simply a question of fashion history repeating itself but never until now has the fashionable woman been able to choose her own skirt length anywhere from midthigh to the ankle.

Other Forquet versions of this double standard featured slim, almost ankle-length coats over brief jump suits. A panel attached at the waist of the jump suits hung down to the ankles, so that when the coat was worn the effect was that of a long dress underneath.

For after dark, Forquet went back to the early 1930s with lounging pajamas, loose bathrobe coats, and bare-backed, halter-neck evening gowns.

Dinner suits had peplum jackets and long tight skirts with a short slit at the back to make movement possible.

Forquet favored sophisticated neutral shades like beige, gray, brown and white.

Ognibene-Zendman also favored both the long and the short. Dresses with low waistlines and brief pleated skirts stopped short four inches above the knee. They were partnered with straight-cut cardigan jackets

At the other end of the scale were slender mididresses in linen worn with jackets that were either bolero-brief or hip length.

And for those women who cannot make up their minds, there were split-front midiskirts that whipped off to show minidresses.

IT WAS BACK to the 30s again for Ognibene-Zendman's evening styles. They were undoubtedly excellent imitations but all this preoccupation with the slithery, droopy fashions of 40 years ago is becoming a repititious bore.

Feathered hemlines, lashings of long silk fringe and marcel waved hairstyles merely pile on the agony.

Over the weekend, Mila Schon and Valentino, Italy's two fashion greats, locked horns.

Sunday night, Schon showed her spring-summer collection, and it proved to be in direct contrast with the new themes Valentino expounded the night before.

Schon stuck to pants, Valentino threw them out.

Schon said short skirts. Valentino dropped the length to low calf.

THE VALENTINO collection looked the newer of the two. Quite a bit of Schon's was deja vu, repeating themes she has used for at least the past four seasons.

She is still using smooth double-face wools and gabardines

HELEN HELP US!

'Tiger Boyfriend' Keeps On Trying, And She Keeps Resisting

DEAR HELEN:

My boy friend tells me I'm as outdated as the buttonhook. He keeps trying and I keep resisting, as I like him, but not that much. This tiger-type says time, tide and sex wait for no man. What should I do? —LOSING INTEREST

DEAR L.I.:

Tell him it's time tiger waited for "No!,man!" As you say, you don't like him that much, so resist him right out of your life.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

My parents are watching me like I'm a six year old child. When I go out, they want to know where I'll be, and the name and telephone number of the person I'm with. If we go to a show, or out to eat, they insist on being told how they can locate me in case of an emergency. I have a 1 a.m. deadline, and if I can't make it, I'm supposed to call home.

Now this might be okay for a girl, but I'm a 16-year-old guy. It sure looks dopey for a boy to be checked on that way. Don't you agree? I'm sure you will as you are pretty hip for your age-MIKE

DEAR MIKE:

Sorry to disappoint you.

I don't think it's unreasonable to insist on knowing how a 16-year-old can be located in case of emergency, nor to expect a call if he can't make it home on time.

If the situation were reversed, wouldn't you feel better knowing where your parents are and when they'll be back? I'll bet they always tell you too. H.

DEAR HELEN:

You hear a lot about how clerks downgrade kids, and treat teenagers like scum. But you hardly ever hear about the nice clerks.

This Christmas my friends and I kept track of the store people who were especially nice to us. Then we got a batch of "Gratefulgrams" and sent one to each store where they treated us like humans. If possible, we named the clerk, or at last described him or her.

I'm enclosing a "Gratefulgram" to show you what I mean. Maybe if more people would do this there would be more nice people serving the public.—S.C.

DEAR S:

Thank you for brightening my day! Gratefulgrams are a terrific idea: I know how much they help, as I've received a few myself.

Note to readers: FYI, Gratefulgrams are sheets of yellow stationery, made to look like telegrams. Down each side of the paper is printed "Thank You" in eight different languages, and at the top: "No matter what language you speak . . . this is a message of thanks."

They are the brainchild of a Seattle, Washington, sales training organization who sends a free supply for the asking. Sorry I can't give the address here: The company isn't equipped for thousands of requests just yet.

Even without special stationery, however, a message of thanks is just about the best unexpected gift anyone can receive. And it helps the giver, too. —H.

DESIGNERS

to make carefully constructed coats and suits that owe their superb shaping to Mila's wizardry with welt seaming.

She is still producing incredibly intricate intarsia work to highlight slim sheath dresses.

Her D'Artagnan blouses in white organdy with triple layer collars have also been seen before.

And then there were those old favorites, her beaded Ice Maiden gowns with which she regularly concludes her shows. They are all beautifully made but they no longer take the breath away.

MILA'S MODELS marched out two by two, like robots, wearing pants suit after suit. The show had been running for at least 20 minutes before a midi length was shown, and then she soon went back to short skirts.

Fringed vamp styles in slippery silk jersey were an attempt to introduce something new, but they looked like something Sally Bowles might have worn for the Berlin night life of the 1930s.

Her prettiest dress was shaped like a Madame Butterfly kimono in a tiny print on delft blue and white organdy.

Valentino stayed with the long look, but tightened it up around the bosom, waist and hips to make it narrower than the longs of seasons past, which have been loose and even voluminous.

The designer reached into the past for one revival—the suit worn with a blouse. The traditional combination had been in the shadows since fashion was taken over by pants, tunics and vests.

Linda Miller of San Rafael was Marlene's maid of honor and her other attendants were Denise G. Overhouse of San Anselmo, Susan Cardoza of San Rafael and Patti Ann Villa of Novato.

Jack Melendez served as best man and the ushers were John Cardoza and Ron Gioni of San Rafael and Marlene's brother, Michael Patrick Keelen of San Rafael.

The reception followed at Marinwood Community Center. The couple then left on a wedding trip to Kentucky.

Marlene is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Keelen Jr. of Fairfax. Now employed in the dental office of Dr. Ronald Sheofsky in Mill Valley, she was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and the College of Marin. ON THE AGENDA

Pianist To Present Dance Music Program At Outdoor Art Club

Daniel Scarlett, pianist, will present "Invitation to the Dance" as the program for the OUTDOOR ART CLUB'S meeting Thursday at 2 p.m. at the clubhouse in Mill Valley.

Scarlett's performance will be the outgrowth of his long-standing dissatisfaction with the stiff formality of the concert world. Using Weber's famous "Invitation to the Dance" to evoke the atmosphere of a romantic encounter in a Viennese ballroom, he follows a waltzing couple as they imagine themselves dancing to music not only of their ancestors but also of their descendants.

Playing only original keyboard music, he takes his audience on a grand tour of four centuries of dance music--in cottages and chateaux, beer gardens and ballrooms. The music is everything from Pavanes, Sarabandes and Gigues, all played on a harpsichord, to schottisches, waltzes, mazurkas, polonaises and polkas, a czardas and even a cakewalk.

A graduate in music from Harvard University, Scarlett studied many years in Europe, including four summers at the internationally famour Chigi Academy in Siena, Italy.

Tea will be served by Mrs. William Moen, assisted by Mmes. Fred Wight, Roy Simpkin, Roland Kelly, C. W. O'Boyle, Richard Smith and Norman Chaponot. Pouring will be Mmes. Franklin Mc Clain, Leslie H. Stanley, Mills Calahan and Victor Rowe.

Greeting members and guests will be Mmes. Jack Shapiro, Willilliam Praun and Donald Harper.

"FAMILY GAMES", behavior patterns we play at home and school, will be discussed by a panel tonight at 7:30 p.m., in the multi-use room of San Clemente School in Corte Madera.

The panel consists of Mary K. Jones who will speak on "When To Put Your Foot Down". Dr. William H. Pemberton will discuss "Communications Within the Family". "The Schools Role in Emotional Health" will be covered by Lynn Jenks. A question and answer session will follow the speakers.

John W. Boyd, Larkspur School District Board Member will be panel moderator.

THE FANGS OF KING WINTER

Section Of Mill Valley Seeking Flood Relief

Residents of the Lower Ryan Creek area asked the Mill Valley City Council last night for flood relief.

A letter signed by Mrs. Ronald L. Horch of 216 Miller Avenue, representing area residents, said the neighborhood was inundated with two feet of water during the high tide and rains Jan. 9. It was the second major flood in the area this winter, she said.

She said the basement of one contained 30 feet of water after the most recent storm and floods also threatened to enter the main living area of three other homes.

Mrs. Horch also reported sewage was forced into streets by the floods on both occasions.

She suggested construction of a higher tidal gate on the creek below Camino Alto and installation of a pump to handle runoff. City engineer Stanley M. Bala agreed that the area should be pumped and the city said it would discuss installation of such equipment with the local flood control zone board.

Jean Barnard of 1 El Capitan Avenue urged that the tidal gate now on the creek be left open at all times to permit movement of salt water into a marshy area used by birds. She noted after the council discussion that it would have made no difference Jan. 9 whether the tidal gate was left open or not, since the tide swept completely over it.

Bala said he would attempt to see that the gate remained open when adverse weather conditions did not exist.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

701 — Held the first in a series of meetings on the city's 701 plan, touching on the phase dealing with general development policies. Granville L. Beedle, secretary-manager of the city chamber of commerce, called for wider notification of businessmen on the sessions. The next discussion will be Feb. 2, on the downtown proposals.

FERN CANYON — Postponed to Feb. 2 action on award of a contract in the controversial Fern Canyon Road Assessment District in the absence of Councilman Jerome C. Hauke. The council said it would continue accepting protests to the work from within the district.

DELL STREET — Awarded a $5,483 contract to A Plus Engineering Co. of Pinole for Dell Street drainage improvements. Although expressing concern it was the firm's first major project, Bala subsequently recommended award of the contract. George E. Wickham dissented in the 3-1 vote, saying the project would benefit only one property owner.

BOTHIN — Referred back to the planning commission, for consideration at its Feb. 19 meeting, revised plans by the Bothin Real Estate Co. to develop a nine-acre site at Camino Alto and Mill Avenue with stores and apartments or apartments alone. Several councilmen expressed alarm over a tentatively projected density of 35 units per acre with apartments alone. Bothin previously proposed a shopping center with no apartments at the site.

ASSESSMENT — Voted to assess property owners at 85 and 234 Sycamore avenue the cost of sidewalk repairs for which they have refused to pay.

DEBRIS — Gave Horst Heinz of 139 Rose Avenue two weeks to clean excavated debris from his property or face city charges for the clean up.

ALTO BOWL — Asked preliminary engineering work on drainage at the Alto Bowl preparatory to planning commission discussion and a city council-planning commission meeting on development plans by Cal-Fong Investment Co.

EMBANKMENT — Heard conflicting reports from Bala and Patrick R. Byrne of 335 Rose Avenue on the potential danger caused by street work adjacent to Byrne's home. Byrne claimed use of heavy equipment possibly weakened an embankment at the site, but Bala claimed no damage was done. The council asked the contractor to restore plantings along the bank to curb potential erosion.

AUDIT — Set a special meeting for 8 p.m. Monday in city hall on the 1968-69 audit presented by Cooper and Kent, San Rafael accountants. Councilman Robert M. Andresen and Mayor Dean N. Meyer tangled over the need for the session, with Andresen saying he wanted an explanation of the report and Meyer countering Andresen should have spoken with the accountants on his own.

ANIMAL CONTROL — Received a report from City Mgr. William Cunningham via the Marin County Humane Society. The report revealed that 44 stray dogs were picked up in the three months concluding 1968, but 85 were caught the final three months of last year. Cunningham told the council citations to be issued to owners of strays would be ready shortly.

BRIDGE — Head from Bala that up to $134,000 in urban thoroughfare and city funds may be available to the city in 1970-71 toward repair of a Camino Alto bridge, where a column was found to have collapsed, and final improvements to the Camino Alto-East Blithedale Avenue intersection.

RETIREMENT — Delayed until Feb. 6 action on placing city employees in the state's Public Employees Retirement System.

REFUSE — Instructed city staff to ask the city's garbage collector about the possibility of picking up plastic bags of garden refuse at a low rate similar to that levied in San Rafael. The council last month approved a different attack on disposing refuse which accumulates as a result of the backyard burning ban.

SEWER — Put on a future agenda for more information a proposal by the Marin Municipal Water District to service sewers in the Alto, Almonte and Homestead sanitary districts.

SHELTER RIDGE — Adopted an ordinance rezoning a portion of Shelter Ridge from multiple residential to planned residential and general commercial zones.

Data System Suggested Program

A county-wide committee, consisting of data processing experts and school officials, to study a system of data processing for school financing was suggested last night to the Novato unified School District Board.

Robert J. Soderblom, accountand, made the suggestion while presenting the annual audit which was accepted by a 6-0 vote with trustee Iriving D. Chapman absent.

A year ago, Soderblom had recommended that the Novato district pull out of the county data processing and go back to its former system of bookkeeping, which it did.

"In four or five years, you will have to get more complete information of the districte's finances to keep an accuratee picture of costs throughout the year," Soderblom said.

He said that there were several experts on computers and data processing in the county and they could contribute knowledge to work out a system to get school districts all the information needed. School officials could work with experts in outlining what information the districts would need.

Soderblom also suggested that the districts hire private computer time because the people running these computers were more qualified that those who run the Marin County computer.

"We were dissatisfied with the results from the county date processing," said trustee William G. Schneeflock.

Trustee Carolyn Crabtree suggested asking the Marin County School Board Association to form such a committee. Fellow trustees agreed.

Avoid Loss

To avoid loss of small items such as baby socks, handerchiefs, gloves and belts, put them in a mesh bag before being loaded into the washer.

Novato Cafeterias Losing Less Money

Novato school cafeterias are losing money, but not as much as last year, Asst. Supt. Eugene DeBrecht reported last night to Novato Unified School District Trustees.

From September through December of 1969, the cafeterias lost $134 in operating expenses on an income of $105,356, he reported. However, to that must be added expenses of $3,230 per month in managerial, and clerical salaries, fringe benefits and capital outlay, he said.

De Brecht said it would be hard to compare the same period of operation last year with this school year as the district is operating one more junior and one more senior high school. He said that when the loss per student is figured at the end of the school year, he was certain it would be less than last school year.

He expected about a $30,000 loss to the district in the total operation for the school year, he said.

Supt. James G. Bunker said that this would be about $2.75 per average daily attendance and would probably be a little lower than state average.

The district has a school food service study committee studying the cafeterias. The board tabled De Brecht's mid-year report until it has a report from the study committee.

The Novato Unified School District Also:

CONTRACT — Awarded Fostmeier Construction Co. of Santa Rosa, lowest of six qualified bidders, a $117,800 contract to complete the addition to the shop at San Marin High School. This contract is subject to approval by the federal office of education in San Francisco. The federal government put up the money to aid districts serving children of the military.

PROJECTS — Authorized applying for three elementary secondary education act Title III projects: $47,600 for elementary reading programs, $55,650 for aid to the program for the educationally handicapped and $43,800 for mathematics and reading materials for all 12 grades.

SNOW TRIPS — Heard a report from Worth Fenner, the district's insurance agent that the district must pay an additional $300 per trip or get an agreement with the city of Novato for unlimited insurance to use school buses for trips to the snow country sponsored by the Novato Parks and Recreation Department. The board took no action on this pending action by the city council. At its Jan. 5 meeting the board had approved use of buses to the snow country for the recreation department.

GRADUATES — Approved 45 students for graduation at the end of the semester Friday. They will not have commencement exercises until June with the others in the class.

CLOSED MEETING — Held a 20-minute closed meeting on rehiring a former employee of the district, but took no action pending a legal opinion from the county counsel's office.

'Name-The Club Contest Announced

To change the organization's name, the Woodacre Improvement Club is sponsoring a "Name-the-Club" contest, open to members and non-members, with a $25 winner's prize and an additional gift.

Entries must be submitted and mailed to the club contest committee by Feb. 1, in care of W.I.C. Contest Committee, P.O. "Name-the-Club" contest, open Box 359, Woodacre, Cal. 94973.

One car out of every 107 registered in 1968 was stolen, says the National Automobile Theft Bureau.

DRAMA REVIEW

Aranson's Hypnotic Powers Prevail In One-Man Show

By GARY TISCHLER

Jack Aranson is not so much an actor as he is conjurer, not so much a dramatic star as he is one of those old fireside storytellers.

He proved that last night at Angelico Hall at Dominican College of San Rafael, performing his one-man rendition of "Moby Dick" in a one-night shot between performances of "Dylan" at the Curran Theater in San Francisco.

Using only a sailor's hat and a thick dark coat as props to create atmosphere, Aranson ran the gamut of characters from the narrator Ishmael, through Captain Ahab, Starbuck, and sometimes, it seemed, the very threatening, solemn sea itself.

There is a danger in this kind of thing, which isn't being done much anymore. It has, at times, an almost hypnotic effect, especially when a man like Aranson is doing it, and if it goes on too long. Aranson has the kind of voice that is pure pleasure to listen to—it rolls along with a force of its own and fairly soon you are listening for sounds and dips, prose turns into pitching poetry, and words and action sometimes get fairly lost in all the resonance.

That's a small complaint however. The whole show was short, and with an intermission. The destruction of the Pequod and its crew came about quickly, and with nothing to see with except one's imagination, surprisingly vividly.

Aranson, at least for me, stopped the whole show with his performances as Father Maple, tre Wlahaler's chaplain, whose sermon fairly burns with a rendition of the Jonah tale.

Orson Welles would have been jealous.

Cash Drawer Looted

A cash drawer with an undetermined amount of money was stolen Friday at 9:40 p.m. from Don's Phillips 66 Service Station at 396 Irwin Street, San Rafael police reported today. A witness saw the thief and gave chase. The thief dropped the drawer and $15 to the street before escaping, police said.

Recital Set Sunday

A public recital of the piano, trumpet and trombone students of Charles F. Douglas will be given at 2 p.m., Sunday at the Novato Presbyterian Church at 710 Wilson Avenue, Novato.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1970 17

UGLY FUTURE—A shopping cart filled with plastic bottles and wax cartons which do not disintegrate and a baby deformed by the long-range effects of pesticides are only two of the grim exhibits in a display at San Rafael High School this week. The display, prepared by students, is being shown in the school's Student Center and is open to the public tomorrow and Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. and on Friday from 12:30 to 3 p.m.

San Rafael Students See Glum Ecological Future For Marin

accommodate the tremendous population growth ("our population could triple"), the resultant pollution and lack of greenery will cause more serious respiratory diseases, according to the articulate young people.

"Our oxygen will be cut down by water pollution and people may have to wear gas masks to go outside," Gunn said, adding "It might sound far out, but they are already doing this in Tokyo. On some days, people who want to go outside have to wear masks; they have oxygen vending machines in most bus and train stations.

"Isn't that a great thing to look forward to," he continued, "having to put 50 cents in a machine to get a breath of fresh air."

The pair sees water as becoming "more and more expensive, perhaps even a luxury."

"We may have to have some sort of chemical substitute for water eventually," Gunn said. "Think of what a water shortage will mean, no more toilets (every time you flush a toilet, you waste 30 gallons of drinkable water), no more baths.

"They are showing that DDT takes calcium from the body and we already have high levels in our systems," he went on, "by the time people our age have grandchildren they could have no bones at all, be just blobs."

They foresee a society in chaos if pollution is allowed to continue without effective checks. "Too many people can mean the end of the educational system;" Miss Cornelius said, "what kind of education can go on in fantastically overcrowded schools. And when education goes, society will naturally deteriorate."

She sees cities of the future as "museums of horror," uninhabitable because of air pollution, abject poverty and skyrocketing crime rates."

"I hate to be so negative," she added seriously, "but things do look pretty bad."

"Oh there are a lot of things we could be wrong about," Gunn said, "but we are not going to take chances."

Both admit their new awareness of ecology has changed their lives; they are prepared to dedicate their lives to conservation of the environment.

"I used to want to be a nice art teacher," Gunn said, "but now I don't see how I'll be able to. I just couldn't face myself if I didn't do something to help improve and save the environment."

Both are thinking of careers in some kind of ecology and, not content to wait for the future, are presently engaged in organizing other young people in the fight.

Miss Cornelius is graduating a semester early in order to work with the Marin Ecology Center in Kentfield to devise effective programs for concerned students.

Declaring the country appears ecologically doomed by the current snail's pace of change, Gunn said he feels ecologists are going to have to become involved in both politics and industry. "We'll have to infiltrate the country," he said, grinning.

Both feel tremendous battles that must be fought against what seem to be insurmountable odds. Gunn said, industry is powerful "and is going to make cheap things for profit, like plastic bottles and cars" without really considering the consequences.

Are the conservationists and ecologists going to win the fight? "We'll have to," Miss Cornelius said simply, "or none of us will survive."

Tow-Away Ordinance Wins Petaluma Nod

The Petaluma City Council last night adopted a two-away ordinance, but only after dropping it as an emergency measure.

Councilman Robert A. Brunner said he had received many complaints about the proposed ordinance from residents who said they could not measure its full effect.

Brunner said it should be passed only as a routine ordinance, which would require 30 days before becoming effective. Saying the council had been accused of "railroading" the measure, Brunner said that calling it an emergency and making it immediately effective was bad public relations.

The tow-away ordinance itself does not apply to any specific street, but by resolution the council can apply the provision to any street after a public hearing.

Brunner said the public realizes that East Washington Street will be the first to be restricted and that businessmen and property owners had many questions about the plan. None appeared to protest the ordinance.

The Petaluma City Council Also

JITNEY—Approved the request of the Gravensen Brothers to extend Jitney Bus Service to South McDowell Boulevard, Baywood and St. Francis drives.

STREAMS — Gave authorization to the Sonoma County Water Agency to enforce the county ordinance prohibiting obstructions in streams to the city.

ABAG—Heard a presentation from J. Julien Baget, executive director of the Association of Bay Area Governments. Baget reported on association activities and why it would be advantageous for Petaluma to return to membership.

LIBRARY—Received a request from the library trustees that all library fines and fees be returned for library use rather than going to the general fund. The council said it would consider the request during budget preparations.

INSURANCE—Approved the inclusion of Petaluma city employees in the Sonoma County health insurance plan.

VOTING—Approved the establishment of four new voting precincts in Petaluma. County Clerk Eugene D. Williams said the population increase warrants additional precincts.

APPOINTMENT — Named Earl Wacker to the board of directors of the Penngrove Fire Protection District.

PRESERVES—Received requests from five Petalumans to have land placed in agricultural preserves. They are Bessae G. Steitz, 109 Seventh Street; Oliver Kullberg, 529 Stage Gulch Road; Wilbur Volkerts, 1796 Pepper Road; Joseph D. Zaebedo, 680 Meacham Road; and Earl J. Dolcini, 1401 Wilson Hill Road.

Fairfax Trustees To Discuss Budgeting

How to spend additional funds which will be available if the Fairfax School District's $1 tax rate increase passes Feb. 17 will be discussed by the district board when it meets today at 7:45 p.m. in the district office, 58 Park Road.

Also to be decided at the meeting is a list of cuts to be made in district operations if the tax measure fails.

Judge Denies Salary Claim Of Marshall

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors learned yesterday that Superior Court Judge John Moskowitz has denied the claim of Cal Purcell for reimbursement of salary as marshall for the Southern Judicial District.

Purcell, replaced as marshall Jan. 15, 1967, had been asking $5,151 in back pay and claimed to be serving as marshall in the court.

The marshall's position had been replaced by the Sonoma County Sheriff's Department in 1967 when the Petaluma Judicial District was merged with the Sonoma Judicial District to become the Southern Judicial District.

In his decision, Judge Moskowitz said he thought it was not the intent of the Legislature to have the court served by both the sheriff and marshall.

The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors also:

8 Pct. Hike In Petaluma Garbage Rate

An 8 per cent increase in garbage collection rates was approved last night by the Petaluma City Council.

Councilman Philip L. Joerger, who headed a rate study committee, said meetings with representatives from the Petaluma Sanitary Disposal Co. showed an increase was justified, although the amount granted was below the company request.

Effective Feb. 1, rate for residential service for one can will increase from $1.85 per month to $2. Other increases will be two cans, $3.25 to $3.40; three cans, $3.75 to $4; four or more cans, from $1.10 per can to $1.20.

Commercial rates were increased from $7.25 per can to $8. Rates are expected to be firm for three years.

Joerger said that mandatory service was considered, but should be implemented only for health reasons and if the city is prepared to do the billing and collection for the company.

Hub Trustees Set Session On Budget

The Candlelighters, a group of Marin parents with cancer stricken children, will launch their campaign to boost federal funds for cancer research at a public luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Saturday at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, San Rafael.

Dr. Richard W. Wolk of San Rafael, the group's spokesman, said the purpose of the meeting was to establish the group as an auxiliary of the Leukemia Society of America and to organize volunteers to aid the campaign. Guest speakers will be Dr. Henry Henstell of Los Angeles, a hematologist, and Dr. Arthur Ablin, San Rafael pediatrician.

Reservations are being handles by Dr. Wolk's Greenbrae office.

Marshland Filling Strongly Protested

The chairman of the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission and a member of the city planning commission challenged the city council last night to explain why the city is filling "primitive, pristine" marshland adjacent to the community's treatment plant.

When an explanation by City Engineer Stanley M. Bala was unsatisfactory to Jean Barnard, parks and recreation chairman, and Planning Commissioner Ivan S. Poutiatine, Mrs. Barnard insisted the issue be placed for resolution on the city council's Feb. 2 agenda.

Poutiatine at one point charged the city with "trying to sweep the dirt under the rug."

Mrs. Barnard said filling of the marshland, a popular feeding place for birds, with "trash" could be likened to "when the Turks used the Parthenon for a powder magazine."

Bala contended the area was originally filled as long as 10 years ago and that the city was merely topping it with chopped-up tree trimmings and street sweepings. Later, however, Ross H. Benson, director of public works, said that crushed road covering and pieces of culvert had been placed at the site and two "semi-abandoned" autos belonging to city employees left there.

Bala said the area was intended for future treatment plant expansion. He said it was legal, under Bay Conservation and Development Commission regulations, to place fill there.

Poutiatine charged the area was being used as a city dump.

Mayor Dean N. Meyer called for recommendations from city staff Feb. 2.

Mental Foundation Names A Director

Larry J. Klinefelter of San Rafael has been appointed to a four-year term as director of the Marin Mental Health Foundation. He is a loan officer at the main branch of Crocker Citizens Bank in San Rafael.

Election of officers will be at the next board meeting Feb. 11 at 8 p.m. in the conference room at Ross General Hospital.

Training Set In Construction

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz says a national training program of wide scope for a segment of the construction industry will be announced soon.

The Department of Labor is assisting "a national contruction association and a major craft union in developing a national journeyman trainee contract," Shultz said Monday.

"This program will produce a major breakthrough" in job opportunities in the construction industry, he told directors of the National Association of Home Builders.

During a press conference following the talk, Shultz refused to identify the construction association and major craft union involved in the program.

Shultz said he thought his department would release the information Sunday.

Reports Attack

A 19-year-old Hamilton Air Force Base woman has reported that she was raped about noon Friday on the base.

According to the base security police and Novato police she did not report it until five hours later. There has not been any arrest in the case, according to police.

Today is Tuesday, Jan. 20, the 20th day of 1970 with 345 to foHow.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1801 President John Adams appointed John Marshall of Virginia Chief Justice of the United States.

In 1892 students at the Springfield, Mass., YMCA played the first official basketball game. Dr. James Naismith invented the game to provide indoor exercise.

In 1936 Britain's King George V died.

In 1965 Lyndon Baines Johnson was inaugurated for his first elected term as president.

In 1969 Richard Nixon was inaugrated as the nation's 37th president.

A thought for the day: American educator Nicholas Butler said, "An expert is one who knows more and more about less and less."

Marinite Is Key Tunney Director

Elizabeth Smith Gatov of Kentfield has been named statewide cochairman of the senatorial campaign of Rep. John V. Tunney, D-38th District.

Mrs. Gatov served as U.S. treasurer under President John F. Kennedy, and as Northern California cochairman of Alan Cranston's successful 1968 U.S. Senate campaign.

Named cochairman with Mrs. Gatov was Warren Christopher, Los Angeles attorney and a former deputy U.S. attorney general under President Lyndon B. Johnson.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Count Tricks Needed Before Developing No-Trump Action

Before you decide which suit to develop at a no-trump contract you must find out how many tricks you need and what chance you have to get them. You should also estimate how much time you have before the opponents set up and run their own long suit.

Opening lead — ♠ 6

LOW SPADE

South wins the first trick with the ten of spades and sees that he can count on winning two spades, one heart, two diamonds and two clubs. He therefore needs two additional tricks.

South can afford to give up the lead only once while he is developing his two tricks. If South loses the lead twice, the opponents will use their first entry to set up the spades and the second entry to cash them. The defenders will thus get three spade tricks and their two outside tricks, defeating the contract.

POOR CHANCE

If South decides to go after the clubs, the odds are slightly better than 2-to-1 that he will develop one additional trick. Since that will not be enough, South will also need a successful heart finesse. That halves his chances, so that the odds are almost 2 to 1 against the success of this plan.

After winning the first spade South should immediately tackle the diamonds. The best method is to lead out the ace and king, followed by the ten. This will produce two additional tricks if the six missing diamonds break 3-3 or if either opponent has the doubleton queen or the doubleton jack of diamonds. The sum of these chances gives South very nearly two chances out of three.

Since it's much better to be a 2-to-1 favorite than a 2-to-1 underdog, South should go after the diamonds. If South needed only one trick he would go after the clubs.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 no trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
S-A J 8 6 3
H-K J 9 6
D-J 6
C-10 4.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention, asking partner to show a major suit of four or more cards.

If partner bids a major suit, you will raise to game. If partner bids two diamonds, denying a major suit of four or more cards, you will bid two spades.

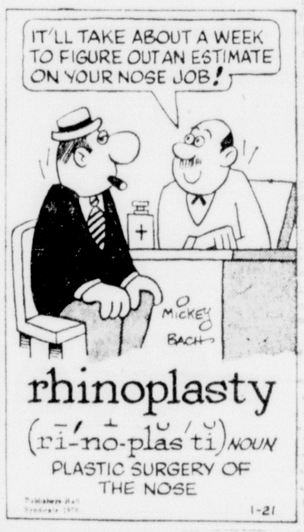

50 Boats Join Pollution Protest

VENICE, Italy (UPI)—Fifty motorboats, barges and fishing craft cruised canals here Sunday to protest pollution.

"Do not let Venice die of poison" placards were waved by those on the boats.

The demonstration was organized by a group called "Front for the Defense of Venice." The protesters attacked industralists for the oil and other pollution in the city's canals.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Painful Tailbones May Result From Poor Posture In Sitting

VAN DELLEN

A stenographer was bothered with an annoying pain in her tailbone (coccyx)

"It has persisted for eight months and hurts most when I sit or bend over. I do not recall being injured and have consulted two physicians who found nothing wrong. Both suggested hot sitz baths morning and night and have assured me that the pain will eventually disappear.

Pain in the tailbone is called coccygodynia and our stenographer's experience is par for the course.

IN THE ABSENCE of an injury, poor posture when sitting or a minor rectal disorder usually is responsible. Sitting in a slouchy position for a long time places considerable pressure on the tailbone. The neighboring muscles become irritated and tense, leading to painful reflex spasm.

If this woman is sitting in a slumped position most of the day, she can expect coccygodynia. The distress might subside if she sits upright as is recommended for desk jobs.

A THOROUGH rectal examination also may disclose an infection that is causing referred pain in the coccygeal area.

Dr. George H. Thiele of Kansas City, Mo., who has seen hundreds of individuals with coccygodynia, believes that rectal problems rank with injury as the most common factors. Massaging the muscles in this area often relieves the pain.

The tailbone may be injured by a kick or blow. Falling into a sitting position also may produce pain in this area. Some tell of striking a protruding object such as the edge of a step. A fracture or dislocation requires special care.

MANY PERSONS with coccygodynia are neurotic and hypersensitive. X-rays of the coccyx of persons with and without pain reveal that the bones in both groups may be normal, deviated to one side, or bent. In other words, an abnormality as seen on the films means very little unless the coccyx is fractured. Furthermore, even if the tailbone is removed, the pain persists and, in many, is aggravated.

Qustions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-F.

INFECTION WITHOUT FEVER

F. V. writes: I had acute bronchitis that lasted seven weeks but my temperature never went up. I'm puzzled as I thought infection always causes fever.

REPLY

Many infections are not severe enough to produce fever. Apparently in your case, there was no absorption of toxins and other by-products of inflammation.

'BLUES' AFTER MONO

Mrs. O. P. writes: Does mononucleoses cause a depressed feeling?

REPLY

Yes, but the symptom is not as characteristic of infectious mononucleosis as are fever, sore throat, fatigue, and glandular swelling. Any infection will get you down if you let it. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this condition.

PERFORATED EARDRUM

C. R. L. writes: Is there any way to close the hole in a perforated eardrum?

REPLY

Yes. Spontaneous closure is encouraged by controling infection in the ear and keeping the outer canal and drum clean. Plastic surgery may be necessary if these conservative measures fail.

WARMING THE HEART

R. V. writes: Is sleeping under an electric blanket hard on the heart?

REPLY

The electric blanket has no effect on the old ticker — good or bad.

Nixon Urged To Ban All Channel Drilling

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly has unanimously called on the Nixon administration to prohibit all oil drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel.

In the Legislature's first environment vote of the 1970 session, the House Monday adopted a resolution sponsored by Assemblyman W. Don MacGillivray, R-Santa Barbara, with Democratic leader Jess Unruh as one of the co-authors.

"If the Legislature did nothing else all year except bring to a halt further despoiling of our tidelands," Unruh told the Assembly, "it would have accomplished a great deal."

The measure, which was sent to the Senate, requests the federal government to immediately stop all oil and gas drilling in its waters off Santa Barbara and Ventura Counties. It also asks that California be permitted to control any drilling in the federal waters.

MacGillivray said his measure provides "a far-reaching guarantee of rigid supervision at the state level on all future oil and gas exploitations along the entire California coastline."

The state has suspended all drilling in its waters within the three-mile limit and adopted stricter regulations for state waters. It now would like to apply the tough restrictions to federal waters.

Unruh, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, previously sponsored his own resolution to end the drilling. But the Republican-controlled Assembly Rules Committee shelved Unruh's measure, inserting much of its language into MacGillivray's resolution. It added the Democratic leader as a co-author.

Oroville Lake Concession Dealings Told Legislature

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A concession contract for recreational development at Lake Oroville was not awarded to the highest bidder, Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said Monday.

In a report to Assembly Democratic leader Jess Unruh, Post said the contract went to Southern California Financial Corp., which offered to pay the state 5 per cent of the first $500,000 in gross receipts and 5 1-2 per cent of the next $1 million.

Post said a competitor's bid to pay 9 per cent and 14 1-2 per cent was rejected. But he said the winning firm was "probably the more financially responsible firm."

Post also said that contract changes after the bid was let will result in the state paying a major part of costs for a road and utilities on adjacent property owned by the firm. Local real estate appraisers say the state improvements will increase the value of the private property from $1.05 million to $4.2 million.

The concession agreement calls for the firm to make an initial investment of $561,000 in public facilities in the development. Post said the Department of Parks and Recreation, which made estimates on the project, "has historically underestimated costs.

"It is possible a higher estimate would have been more realistic for the initial concessionaire investment."

The 1969 Legislature provided $1.5 million for road and utility construction into the Bidwell Bar Canyon recreation area. Later Southern California Financial Corp. bought 550 acres of private property bordered on three sides by the state recreation project.

After the firm won the concessions contract, it and the state agreed to change the original plan calling for construction of a road and utilities along the edge of state property into the canyon.

It was announced the route would be too expensive, and the proposed road was moved to go through the private land.

Tax Relief For Elderly Introduced

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Four bills designed to give tax relief to an estimated 1.8 million California senior citizens was introduced Monday by Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco.)

Marvyv.o) one of the bills would provide a state income tax credit for persons over 65 who rent rather than own their residences. He said the credit would be comparable to the homeowners property tax exemption.

His other measures would:

—raise the maximum allowable income for oldesters who claim coverage under the state's Senior Citizens Property Assistance Law from $3,350 to $5,000.

—allow elderly homeowners with incomes below $5,000 to postpone payment of their property taxes until the property is sold or the owner dies.

—permits Social Security recipients to receive an increase from the federal government without the state subtracting the same amount from California assistance programs.

Dr. Hallinan Will Deliver Drug Talk

Dr. Patricia Hallinan, assistant public health officer for Marin County, will speak on drugs at the meeting today of the Northern California Juvenile Officers Association at 7:30 p.m. at Bob's of Marin, Corte Madera. Eighty to 100 officers are expected to attend, reported Police Lt. Albert Howenstein of Corte Madera.

Hosts for the meeting are Howenstein, Capt. Charles J. Mattos of Larkspur and Juvenile Officer Charles Newman of Corte Madera.

Reagan Defends His Tuition Plan

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan says his tuition plan can help solve the two biggest problems facing higher education in California.

Speaking to a group of high school and junior college students in the Capitol Monday, Reagan said the two major problems are how to raise more money for the colleges and university and how to send the children of the poor to college.

Reagan described his "deferred tuition" under which the needy student could pay his tuition after graduating and taking a job.

Reagan defended the tuition proposal saying it is appropriate for students and the state to share the cost of higher education because both benefit when the student puts his education to work.

Reagan said the present system of no tuition is not really a free education as it is often called.

He said the present system "is subsidized by the very rich and the very poor," because both groups pay taxes disproportionate to the benefits they receive.

The tuition plan would ease the burden on the rich, and the deferred payment scheme would enable the poor to get more use from the system, the governor said.

Reagan compared his plan with the tuition proposal made last week by UC President Charles Hitch. Hitch's plan calls for the first tuition payments in the history of California's university system, beginning next September at $180 and doubling for the 1971-72 school year.

Added to other fees, the total would be $480 next year and $660 for 1971-72.

The tuition charges would be combined with increased financial aid for needy students, but with no deferred payment scheme.

"But I still hope they'll come around to my plan," Reagan told the students.

The occasion for the question and answer session with Reagan was the first meeting of Assemblyman Eugene A. Chappie's student advisory board. The Republican from Cool, whose district extends from Death Valley to the Sacramento Valley, formed the group to advise him on student opinions and problems.

Sixty-five students from 32 high school and junior college campuses attended the session.

Detroit Police Stress Courtesy

DETROIT (AP) — Should you ever drive in Detroit, don't be surprised if a policeman roars up along side you, steps off his motorcycle and says: "I'm dreadfully sorry, sir, but it would appear that you were driving at a speed in excess of the limit."

The president of the Detroit Police Officer's Association wants every Detroit policeman to be kind to at least three people per day.

Carl Parsell, recently reelected head of the police union, said it's part of a plan to have Detroit's 5,000 policemen impress 450,000 citizens in just one month.

Parsell calls it "Operation Go Pro" and says "professional pay will follow along behind acceptance as a professional."

The Smothers Brothers Plan A Calm Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tom and Dick Smothers, the comedians dropped last April by the CBS television network, return to the air Feb. 16 in a one-shot special for NBC.

"We're not going to offend anyone—which is a novelty for us," says Tom.

The show will be mainly comedy and singing, he said, adding: "All the controversial lines will be delivered by Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson and Mark Twain."

In such distinguished forebears the balding, big-eared guitarist of the Smothers pair had found zinging comments.

"Listen to this from Jefferson: "I hold that a little rebellion now and then is a good thing.'

"Or Franklin: 'Where complaining is a crime, hope becomes despair.'

"Or Jefferson: 'Where the press is free and everyman is free, all is safe',"

Smothers said the show will try to bring out "the basic concepts on which our country was founded."

"But there's a new censorship now. You can say anything you want, but you can't say it anywhere you want. In the park it's OK, but not on TV. It's what put the Smothers Brothers off the air.

"When people start censoring themselves, that's where it's serious. I find myself going through this show"—he riffled the script—"not wanting to offend anybody."

In dropping the brothers, CBS said they had consistently failed to deliver tapes of their shows in time for network review.

Tom told newsmen at the time: "They've harassed us and want us off the air because they think we're a threat to them."

Had Tom any regrets now over his action in the controversy?

He said he'd take the same stand again, but "maybe I'd be just a little bit more of a diplomat."

Smothers, Inc., occupies a three-story Beverly Hills building the brothers bought when their show was riding high. Tom is president. Projects include TV specials—a second one will be about Dick's auto racing—along with record production, music publishing, talent management and, according to plan, movie production.

Dick wasn't present.

"His involvement is being a Smothers Brother," said Tom. "He's not as interested as I am in the production or creative end."

Channel Chuckles

"A few weeks ago a voice said 'Peace on earth, good will toward men' and the set hasn't worked since."

44,577 times a day they do the unusual, as usual

Does it surprise you to know that the largest distribution system in Marin County is actually manned by BOYS? Our 825 I-J carriers, averaging a ripe old 12 years of age, deliver 44,577 I-Js daily in every town and street . . . to most of the homes in the county. And what are they carrying? Information, enlightenment, entertainment—the fast-changing history of today.

That's what makes their job unusual. That's why their training in route-management, in service, and in initiative is important . . . both to the community and to themselves. Take a second look, then, when you see "your" I-J boy on his bike. He's the carrier of your right to know. As a young, independent spirit (his own boss) he's carrying the best "news" ever printed—your right to a free press.

Service is the watchword in the I-J carrier training program. Boys learn business-like methods, how to collect, to keep accounts, be punctual. Not a bad way to grow up!

Trained supervisors, who like working with youngsters, help and advise all carriers in mastering the job. But it's not all work. Plenty of trips, prizes, fun—lots of incentives.

TODAY IS NATIONAL NEWSPAPERBOY DAY

Time out to doff the hat to the boys who deliver the thing no one can live without—the news of today.

Maurie Luxford Back In Action

This week's 29th annual edition of the Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament at Pebble Beach means that Maurie Luxford is back in action.

If you haven't met Maurie you've missed one special treat in life because he is one of those unforgettable characters the Reader's Digest keeps writing about.

For openers, consider that Luxford, now well along into his 70's, was the first non-professional ensconced in the Golf Hall of Fame.

Or, he is probably the only man alive who can say he drove a golf ball into the backside of a president of the United States.

Or, would you believe he once turned his backside to a King?

Luxford has been tournament director for Crosby since the golf clambake's inception. He was the originator of the celebrity-type golf tournaments as a means to raise money for worthy charities. In World War II, for example, his promotional wizardry raised an estimated $624 million in war bonds followed by additional countless millions for such causes as cancer research, youth centers, crippled children, recreation, etc.

Helping Hand To Marin Kids

In the mid-1960s Luxford lent his big helping hand to Marin crippled and mentally retarded children by bringing his golf shows to Peacock Gap in San Rafael. It was work like this that earned him the tag of "Mr. Golf" and gave him his rare pass to the golf Hall of Fame.

A New Zealander Maurie came to this country in 1919 at age 25, penniless, found opportunity, hit it big, and spent the rest of his life thanking America. He became lifetime international public relations director for Pepsi Cola, a job which enabled him to get out and promote charities.

Luxford is at his finest with a microphone. At these celebrity tournaments it is his job to introduce the Hollywood personalties. While it doesn't take much to introduce Bing Crosby or Dean Martin, for example, he can take a bit part player in a late, late show and make him sound like John Barrymore or introduce a local small potatoes politician and have him ranked right up there with Richard M. Nixon.

Maurie's persuasiveness also is essential in assembling stars for these far-flung tournaments. He simply charms them into it.

Charm Can Be Disadvantage

Since the Crosby thing is the most prestigious of all celebrity tourneys, Luxford's charm can work to disadvantage. That is, how can he DISCOURAGE entries?

He told me: "In the Crosby we have room for 168 amateurs. Now Bing likes to keep a permanent group of about 120 amateurs from year to year, which leaves about 48 openings. This year I received requests from 9,412 amateurs.

"Now, look at it this way: There are 168 people who thank Bing for the invitation and 9,244 who curse me out for being turned down."

Another problem is arranging foursomes, said Maurie: "Once I get the final entry, then I have to figure the most compatible foursomes, who would like to be paired with whom in the amateur groups and also putting them with the proper professionals."

The amateurs go to Pebble for a ball while the pros are strictly money conscious with a $150,000 purse.

They Were Purely Accidental

Oh, yes, Maurie's embarrassing confrontations with a president and a king, both, of course, accidental.

"I was playing with President Eisenhower one day many years ago," smiled Luxford, "and was a bit nervous with the Secret Service all around. I shanked a shot just as the President was bending over and hit him right in the seat of the pants. I almost died. But he just grinned and said, 'That's all right Maurie, you hit my wallet.'"

As a subject of the commonwealth, his inadvertent rebuff of his monarch came following military service in World War I when he received the Military Cross at ceremonies. Misreading instructions, he made an about-face instead of a quarter-turn and left the king staring at his backside.

Like I said, Mr. Luxford leaves an indelible impression on those he meets. If you're at the Crosby this weekend, gave him a wave.

It was enough to make even a half-grown man begin to feel old.

The official title — Northern California Compulsory Girls Gymnastics Meet — sounds very stuffy, a little rectified and rigid.

It is not quite like that. It is a little more like that commercial where you watch some man's daughter begin to grow and catch that still shot where she's running, hair free, on the brink of no longer being a little girl.

There were 350 of them at Tamalpais High School, Saturday, from 16 different high schools, competing, perspiring quite a bit, but all feminine in a way that suits their age, which is a long time ago for any adult watching it all.

They're competing all right, but not in any way that boys and men do on fields in all kinds of masculine gear and tape. You feel as if you walked into one of those pajama parties where everything looks soft and sounds girlish. Maybe this isn't a place for a sportswriter, after all.

Until the girls mill around on the floor, the place looks like a blown-up dentist's office. There is all this gear — the gleaming parallel bars, the long smooth length of the wooden beam and the runway of the vaulting event.

But suddenly it becomes a whirl of activity—hundreds of girls in red, green, blue and black tights, hair wound in a hundred different ways, eager and tense. They start it all with an impressive ceremony much like a miniature Olympic walk as all the girls solemnly march out onto the floor behind a state and American flag, some of them supressing giggles and laughs as they spot friends or parents.

Most of these girls are reasonably new at this. There are only two classified as advance in this meet, and only ten high intermediates. The rest are novices, beginners or low intermediates. And the higher you get, the more you learn about real poise and grace. In fact, today's female revolutionaries wouldn't like this one bit because it is altogether too feminine.

Some of the girls, especially the freshmen and sophomores, approach the parallel bars as if they're about to walk down the aisle for the very first time. There is a deep breath, a nervous smile that no halfback could duplicate and then that slow swirl of motion and, when it's done right, pure grace.

There is a corner of the gymnasium, bare and empty, that is reserved for the free excercise portion of the competition. It is here where the girls will do something that very much resembles a spur-of-the-moment dance, that nevertheless is controlled, thought out. The beginners will do it to a scratchy and eventually weary tune called "Gravy Waltz" while the more advanced competitors will perform to the strain of that old Henry Mancini favorite, "Charade."

There is a strange spirit of camaraderie here. The girls don't seem to be competing against each other. It's more like a girl scout camp, everybody sitting on the floor, lounging, sucking on thumbs and lollipops, giggling, cheering insanely when a girl makes a clean vault. But not everybody does. Some of them flop crazily over the barrier, or fall, but still manage to stand up to make the customary finishing motion, hands up, head

Boudreau In Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Lou Boudreau, former shortstop and playing manager of the Cleveland Indians, was elected to Baseball's Hall of Fame today.

Boudreau, 52, finished third last year in the balloting when Stan Musial and Roy Campanella were elected. He received 232 of the 300 votes cast this time by the Baseball Writers Association of America, seven more than required for election.

Ralph Kiner, the slugging Pittsburgh outfielder who tied or led the National League in homers for seven consecutive seasons, finished second with 167 votes.

Gil Hodges, currently manager of the New York Mets, was third in the voting with 145 votes; EArly Wynn, the most recent major league pitcher to win 300 games, fourth with 140 votes; Early Wynn, the most tling outfielder for the St. Louis Cardinals, fifth with 133 votes.

Basketball Holds Off On Merger

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pete Maravich and all those other hot shot college seniors got a reprieve Monday when the National Basketball Association once again turned down merger feelers by the American Basketball Association. But don't spend the money yet, Pete.

The NBA owners were scheduled to continue today their pre-All Star game expansion discussion involving the addition of two teams, but certain to be in the back of their minds is the still very real possibility of the merger.

It takes four no votes from the 14 owners to nix expansion and at least three clubs—New York, Philadelphia and Chicago—are already on record as preferring a union with the three-year old ABA, rathe than expansion.

Giants Sign Five More Players

SAN FRANCSICO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants announced the signing of five players today including Mike McCormick, Jim Hart, Ron Hunt and Hal Lanier.

The fifth player to sign, according to club President Horace Stoneham, was minor-league outfielder Bernie Williams.

McCormick, likely to be in the starting pitching rotation, was 11-9 last year with a 3.34 earned run average, finishing the season in good style after a mid-season lapse.

Hart, troubled by a chronic shoulder injury last year, appeared in only 95 games and hit .254 with three home runs as compared to an average of 25 homers a season in previous years.

The Giants said the stocky outfielder has undergone intensive treatment for the injury and is now in top shape.

Hunt hit .262 last season and again was the league leader in being struck by pitches. The veteran infielder was hit 25 times during the season, tying his own National League record. He also drew 51 walks and scored 72 runs.

Lanier, the leader of the Giants' fine infield, was second in the league in chances handled at shortstop and double plays while hitting .225 and driving in 35 runs.

Williams, 22, hit .281 for Amarillo of the Texas League and was voted to the league's all-star team.

49ers In First Inter-Conference Trade

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco 49ers announced the first interconference trade in professional football yesterday, giving their third-round draft choice to the Kansas City Chiefs in exchange for kick return artist Noland Smith.

The 49ers picked up the 5-foot-6 Smith midway through the 1969 season and the little speedster averaged 22 yards on kickoff returns.

Kansas City had signed him to a contract, however, but the 49ers obtained possession of it officially in giving up a choice in the pro draft to be held next week.

Baseball

NEW YORK — Bob Scheffing, a baseball man since 1935 as a catcher, manager, coach and talent scout, has shouldered the pressure job of succeeding the late John Murphy as general manager and vice-president of the world champion New York Mets.

The 56-year-old Scheffing at first turned down feelers from M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board, shortly after Murphy died Wednesday night from a massive heart attack. He changed his mind and was accepted unanimously at a board meeting yesterday morning.

OAKLAND — Sportscaster Harry Caray, who won fame for stripping to his undershorts in a muggy St. Louis press box, may find the climate a bit more temperate in Oakland, where he will announce the A's games in 1970.

Caray, cut loose after calling the play-by-play for the St. Louis Cardinals for 25 years, was introduced to sportswriters yesterday by A's Charlie Finley.

Belvedere Sailors Name New Officers

PASADENA — University of Michigan football coach Bo Schembechler, who suffered a heart attack prior to the Rose Bowl game, was released from St. Luke Hospital yesterday to return to his home in Ann Arbor, Michigan.

AUSTIN, Tex. — The pressure of big-time college football finally got to James Street, Texas' bandit-nerved quarterback. He has dropped all his courses Jan. 9, six days before finals.

Street has statements on file from all four of his teachers that at the time of his withdrawal he was passing. The statements are necessary because of a Southwest Conference rule which will allow Street to reenroll in February and be eligible for baseball this spring.

Basketball

SAN FRANCISCO — University of San Francisco forward Johnny Burns, who led the Dons to a 70-64 upset win over Santa Clara last week, was named player of the week yesterday by the Northern California Basketball Writers.

LONG BEACH — Square with the law again, Mando Ramos hopes to square things with the California Boxing Commission in time to defend his world lightweight boxing championship against Ismale Laguna March 3.

Ramos had a drunk driving charge reduced to reckless driving and paid a $250 misdemeanor fine for being present where others were using marijuana.

Tennis

NEW YORK — Rod Laver, the world's top tennis player, announced yesterday that he is abandoning the wooden racket for one made of aluminum and that he would use it in the $10,000 winner-take-all match against Pancho Gonzales at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

SYDNEY, Australia — Frank Sedgman, Australian tennis star of 20 years ago, extended countryman Bill Bowrey, a current Davis Cup player, to five sets today before bowing in the Australian Championships today, 6-2, 1-6, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5, in a three-hour match.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

The Ones That Got Away At San Pablo

Marty Medea of Woodacre, Sam Knoles and I gave the San Pablo Bay area a try last week.

We started off with a nice high tide in the morning, and the bay was calm. I hooked a sturgeon about the first cast. It was 41½ inches long, so I released it and gambled on a bigger one.

Sam, a little later, hooked a big one, but on the set he goofed, and got a backlash on the reel. I guess he had a sturgeon or a big bass, we'll never know, because it took off, and that was all she wrote! The fish broke off and Sam, who has been a regular goofoff lately, lost, it.

I say goofoff lately because on our last trip, on a minus tide, Sam put us up on the mud flats and sheared a pin. We were between Marin Rod and Gun Club pier and Loch Lomond and Sam took the shortcut across the flat. We were able to row the boat to the channel, but that was as far as we culd go against the wind. We tried running the boat in reverse and, for one reason or another, the motor took hold at a very slow speed, so we backed all the way in I think the moon was shining about that time. I think that was the day he got seasick, too! How can one get seasick in the bay?

ANYWAY, a little later after we had moved around the bay trying different hot spots that weren't hot, Sam hooked another fish. Marty and I thought he had a sturgeon, but it turned out to be a 28-pound bass. Marty and I didn't get a hit, so Sam ended up to be champ of the day.

You can't beat luck!

This seems to be our pattern the boat catches one big fish, so far this season. Someone in sometimes we get two, but our overall average seems to be one fish. We saw Joe and Molly Mello out there. Molly landed one sturgeon about 50 pounds and that was it for them. Things are bound to pick up pretty darned soon.

OVER THE WEEKEND, Fish and Game Warden Russ Ild and I noticed the herring run down near Elephant Rock at Tiburon. We received a number of calls saying that people there were gathering the eggs. Even some skindivers were taking part in this activity. It seems that herring eggs attached to kelp make up some new edible dish. It is a legal deal for a sport fisherman to do this, though selling this product is illegal unless the fisherman has a commercial license and a special permit from the Department of Fish and Game. The Fish and Game Commission has only issued one such permit for a limited amount on a trial basis. We'll have to wait and see what happens here.

I RECEIVED a release from the Department of Fish and Game which stated that the past duck season was one of the best in recent years at Grizzly Island. Some 21,606 hunters took 45,352 birds for an average of 2.1 birds per hunter. About 10 per cent of the hunters were juveniles, reflecting a gradual but steady increase in the number of youngsters taking advantage of the hunting opportunities offered at Grizzly Island. A breakdown of the species of ducks taken during the season shows the total take consisted of: Pintails, 42 per cent; wigeon, 18.8 per cent; spoonies, 16.6 per cent; green wing teal, 13 per cent; mallards, 3 per cent; ruddy ducks,2.1 per cent; gadwalls, 1.9 per cent; and other species, 2.6 per cent. In addition 724 geese and 1,144 mud hens also were bagged.

ON JAN. 24, the Marin Rod and Gun Club will have its 43rd annual stag banquet at its clubhouse located on Point San Quentin. The banquets are always a huge success, and this year's promises to be a "howler."

They plan the regular event with a cocktail hour that starts at 6:30 p.m. followed by an excellent chicken dinner at 7:30 along with live music, speakers and a variety show by professionals. The seating capacity for the clubhouse is approximately 500, so you'd better get your ticket now. The price is $4 per man. See you there.

PREP NOTES

Bulldogs Have New Cage Star

Some people are just not born basketball players.

Don Duryee and his coach Mike Diaz of San Rafael would probably be the first ones to admit that Duryee was no natural, even as long as a year ago.

But the 6-7½ senior center for the Bulldogs is turning into one heck of a basketball player thanks to work with coaches, plus some extra individual effort by Duryee himself.

A year ago, Duryee, who somewhere between his freshman year and last year shot from an undramatic 6-1 to an imposing 6-7, was toiling in the junior varsity ranks, a last name on a tiny box-score. Today, he is probably one of the best, if not the best, centers in the Marin County Athletic League--varsity style.

The kid is averaging some 23 points a game in three MCAL games so far and is clearing off the boards at around 20 rebounds a game over 15 games on the season. He's good and getting better, strong and getting stronger. He's no reed-thin beanstalk. He's got some meat around the bones which serves him well under the bucket where he triggers the Bulldogs' successful fast break.

He is one of the few brand-new sensations in this year's league. Most of the stars this year are holdovers from last year--Duryee is practically a new face and dimension.

"He's one of the most coachable kids I know," Diaz said of Duryee. "Brett Tovani, the junior varsity coach, worked with him quite a bit last year and then I did. He learns quickly. He was very awkward at first, like most boys who grow fast. Shooting used to be one of his big problems."

It's not anymore. Duryee has gained confidence in his shooting. He shoots jumpers and hooks with little signs of clumsiness. He's a real comer and still improving.

THE HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL season isn't on yet, but the clincis are.

A regular convention of Marin county Athletic League coaches showed up at the 10th annual San Mateo Baseball Clinic last week where ex-Giant Tom Haller, now with the Los Angeles Dodgers, and Bob Winkle, head coach at Arizona State University, the NCA champion three out of the last five years, were top guests.

Marin County coaches in attendance included Gary Hughes, Cliff Vattuone, Bill Isetta and Dave Gonsalves of Marin Catholic, Al Endriss, and Gary Coronado of Redwood, Bob Aune of Novato, Al Anlsten, Mike Campas and Fred Campas of Tamalpais and Jack Sims of San Rafael.

HERE'S some more names and one correction on the Northern California Girls Compulsory Gymnastics Meet held at Tamalpais High School last Saturday.

Other individual event winners from Marin County, in addition to the overall winners included Carla Spanberg, San Rafael, bars;Terry Brown, Tamalpaid, vaulting and Belinda Johnson, Tamalpais, beam in novice division. Laurie Glenn Novato, floor exercise and beam and Carolyn Caldwell, Novato vaulting in low intermediate. Ivory Foster, Tamalpais, bars in beginners and Diane Lamb, beam in high intermediate.

As for the correction, Montgomery of Santa Rosa finished fifth instead of third in the team standings.

Word's Out: Petaluma Is On Rampage Again

By STEVE WYNNE

The word is spreading among North Bay League basketball teams: Petaluma High School is on the rampage again.

The Trojans, looked to as title contenders this season, appear to have finally put it all together after a slow start as they have now won three in a row, the last a convincing 84-71 win over previously unbeaten Napa.

Petaluma started the year slowly, then opened the league season with a loss to first-place Montgomery (now 3-0). Since then, however, it's been nothing but wins as the Trojans have rolled over Vallejo, Ukiah and Napa.

Ross Goree, who dumped in 33 points in last Friday's win over Napa, has been the sparkplug for Petaluma. Goree is averaging 25 points per game in NBL-I play and is the league's leading scorer. The 6-foot-5 senior is also the Trojans' key rebounder, hauling down 19 against Napa.

Junior Joe Rodola has just about matched Goree in point production this season as he is averaging 20 points per game. Rodola and Dave Thomas, the other forward, have aided Goree on the boards.

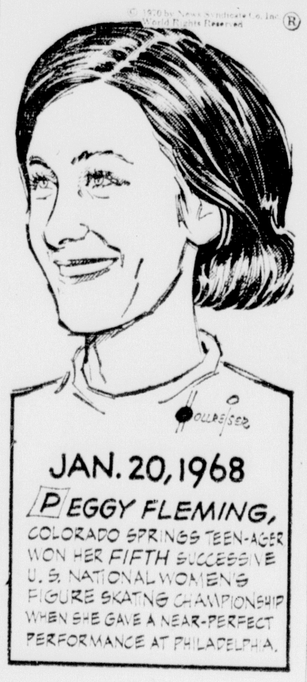

The surprises for Petaluma Coach Bob Donahue this season have been at the guard positions. Donahue has four capable guards and all have been seeing heavy duty. Senior Dave Adams turned in one of the best performances by a Trojan guard this season against Napa as he hit 11 points, registered five assists, and was five for seven from the floor. Junior Tom Williams, soph Kevin Gillmore and senior Larry Johnson all have performed well at guards.

Over in Sonoma, the NBL-II favorite Dragons seem to have regained their momentum after an upset loss to Cardinal Newman last week which cost them the league lead.

The Dragons, led by junior Dick Romberg, destroyed Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park Friday night to raise their league mark to 2-1. Cardinal Newman beat Analy to remain unbeaten in four outings.

Romberg, Dan Waldron and Dan Briggs give the Dragons the league's deepest scoring punch. Coach Bob Bergman has some strong players at the other two positions, however, with Al Martinson, Tom Muehl, Jon Sherman and Cy Binh all "doing a job" for the Dragons.

Jerry West Retains His Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry West of the Los Angeles Lakers, the only plus-30-pointer in the National Basketball Association, has retained his season-long scoring lead.

West scored 30 points in his last game before the All-Star game to give him 1,340 points in 43 games this year, a 31.2 average, NBA statistics revealed today.

Fellow All-Stars Billy Cunningham remained second at 28.1, Elvin Hayes of San Diego was third with 26.6, Milwaukee's Lew Alcindor was fourth at 26.5 and Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson was fifth at 25.5.

Flynn Robinson of Milwaukee retained his free throw percentage lead at .901, while Nate Thurmond of San Francisco leads in rebounding average at 17.7 a game.

Rain Washes Out Golfers

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The 18-hole qualifying round for 25 open slots in this year's Bing Crosby National Pro-Am golf tournament was washed out Monday at Spyglass Hill Golf Course.

The 147 professionals were to tee off today, among them Ralph Deming and Byron Comstock, who shot two under par 70s to lead all finishers before rain interrupted the play.

More rain is expected for the classic, which starts Thursday on the Spyglass Hill, Pebble Beach and Cypress Point courses.

bowed, eyes blinking if they've done it badly.

I think one can probably appreciate all the technicalities of this meet, all the twists and movements that go into each event, all the hours of work and all the crazy hopes and failures.

But there's something else here. This is, after all, a girl's thing. It is something none of the olds boys in the old gang used to do or will do. It is all a little bit about being a girl of a certain age and time. They all seem to have a certain kind of beauty that hasn't been touched by too many beauty shops and manicurists, a kind of gracefulness that is still fragile and unrehearsed. It has nothing to do with being a well-scrubbed All-American girl. It is more of a feeling that next year or years from now they won't ever be like this again.

Another way to watch it, a picture that says this: There comes a moment in the tight, short movements on parallel bars when a girl lies precariously balanced for a few seconds on the highest bar before rolling over and under and it's then you can almost tell what they looked like as even younger girls and what they will become. Their arms stretched out, they look perched, poised and you think, since at this age they can do the impossible, that they just might fly.

THE SPORTING GENTRY

Grimm Is Home Grown Product

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Edward H. Grimm Jr., physical education teacher and coach at College of Marin, is a home grown product of Marin County athletics.

Grimm, who has been at the Kentfield school for 12 years, is assistant football coach and golf coach for the Tars. At one time he coached the Marin baseball team.

A San Rafael native, Grimm went to St. Raphael's grammar school and then Tamalpais High School. He was at College of Marin—as a student—in 1946 through '48, and then transferred to Chico State where he earned his B.A. and M.A. degrees.

ED GRIMM JR.
Home grown

MARINER HALFBACK

He was a halfback on the Mariners' football team and pitcher-second baseman on the baseball team.

"We had a pretty fair pitcher on the team in 1946," Grimm said. "His name was Art Schallock." Art later went on to play major league baseball with the New York Yankees and now lives in the Peacock Gap section of San Rafael.

At Chico State Grimm played some football as an end and also was a sprinter on the school's track and field team. His bests were 10.1 seconds in the 100-yard dash and 23.7 in the 220.

HIKING, CAMPING

He doesn't do any sprinting now, but does enjoy hiking on family camping trips. If you don't run, you might as well walk.

His favorite pastime is coin collecting, and Grimm is especially proud of his penny collection which includes Indian head and Lincoln head pennies dating from 1857 to 1969.

"I don't have a penny from the first year, 1856," he said, adding that a penny of 1856 vintage would command anywhere from $600 to $5,000, depending on the condition.

The 45-year-old Grimm has been collecting coins for the past 25 years. He keeps the collection in a bank safety deposit box.

Grimm didn't start his college education until his Army days from 1943 to '46 during World War II. He was an infantry staff sergeant.

His first teaching job was at Shasta High School in Redding for two years, but after two years he worked himself back to the Bay Area and San Lorenzo High where he taught from 1954 to 1958 before coming to his alma mater, College of Marin.

Although a golf coach, Grimm doesn't lay any claims to being a shotmaster. "I'm just a hacker," he laughs, saying he shoots in the low 90s. He's been coaching golf for four years, and has been an assistant grid coach all 12 years he's been at COM. He was baseball coach for eight years. Grimm handles the offensive ends on coach Dick Read's staff.

PRAISES COACHES

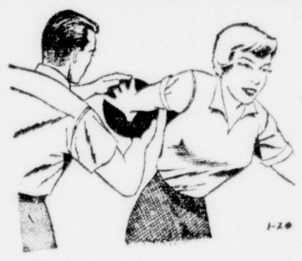

Grimm feels the athletes coming to College of Marin are coming better trained than when he first started out. "The high school coaching is much better now," he explains. "I feel the Marin high school football coaches are as good as you'll find anywhere in the state."

When Grimm first started coaching at Marin, the full time enrollment was 600. Now it's 3,400. "We had 22 or 23 players on our football teams then," he said. "Now we get 55 or 60 players coming out for the team."

Ed and his wife, June, have two children, Martha, who will be 12 tomorrow (Jan. 21), and Scott, 10. The family home is at 109 Lowell Avenue, San Rafael.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG

Maybe you have to twist your husband's arm — or your boy friend's — to get him to bowl with you, but once you get to the alley don't do it any more. I mean, of course, that you should not twist your arm on the backswing. If you think you are, have someone stop the ball at the top of your backswing and turn it if necessary to get your fingers behind the ball.

East NBA All-Stars Favored

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — With the most important 14 feet of the West squad looking on from sidelines and a hospital bed, the East ruled a solid favorite in tonight's National Basketball Association All-Star game, which will be televised on Channels 7, 11 and 13 at 5:30 p.m.

But Each Coach Red Holzman doesn't think the West will be using its injuries as a crutch and give in easily.

"Sometimes having a handicap is not a handicap," he said with the sagacity he has used to coach the New York Knicks to a runaway start in the NBA's Eastern Division. What he meant was an underdog sometimes plays even harder.

The East, which has a 13-6 edge in the All-Star games and has won six of the last seven, is given its advantage at center where the Knicks' Willis Reed, relieved over X-rays that showed Monday he has no ulcer, and Milwaukee's Lew Alcindor reside.

They will be going up against Elvin Hayes of San Diego and Bob Rule of Seattle who will be present because 7-foot-1 Wilt Chamberlain of Los Angeles and 6-11 Nate Thurmond of San Francisco won't be playing.

Chamberlain, pro basketball's greatest scorer, will be on the sidelines with a mending knee injury and Thurmond will be in a San Francisco hospital following knee surgery.

NHL Stars To Clash Tonight

ST. LOUIS (AP) — East Coach Claude Ruel of the Montreal Canadiens has thrown the challenge to his team to live up to its billing in tonight's National Hockey League All-Star game.

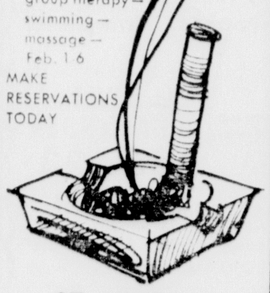

The fiery Ruel, who will lead a formidable lineup into the clash, says it will require extra effort to overcome the West because of an organist and a foot-stomping, partisan crowd. The game will be televised on Channel 20, at 7 p.m.

To that end Ruel and Bill Wirtz, president of the Chicago Black Hawks, protested last week against the scheduled performance of Norm Kramer, host St. Louis Blues organist.

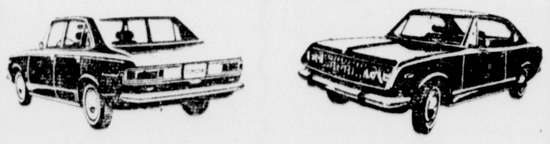

Despite Ruel's claim that Kramer's organ pounding gives the West a one-goal advantage, the dapper impressario is expected to be at his position high above arena ice, however.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Ex-Dividend Date Actual Cutoff Time

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I bought 10 Ford Motor at 43 on Oct. 20, and Oct. 27 was the settlement date. Why not Oct. 24? A 60-cent dividend was paid last month to stockholders of record Oct. 31. Am I not entitled to this?—D.T.

A. The NYSE has increased the settlement period to five business days from the previous four days, so Oct. 27 was correctly stated in your case. On Oct. 27 your shares traded ex-dividend and were therefore delivered to you too late for you to receive the payment in question. It is this ex-dividend date—and not the stock of record date—which finally determines who gets the dividend check. It follows a four-day rule calculated back from the stock of record date.

Q. Have some no-load funds performed as well as the load funds? I'm thinking only of capital gains and maximum safety.—F.M.

A. Yes, they have. The average rise of 104 per cent in net asset value for all no-load funds, for 5 years through 1968, included conservative DeVegh (100 per cent), Johnston Mutual (95 per cent), T. R. Price Growth Stock (84 per cent) and more speculative New Horizons (266 per cent, also managed by T. R. Price), Ivy (245 per cent) and Drexel Equity (181 per cent).

For the same period the average increase for some 350 open-end funds was 86 per cent. Enterprise hit the peak at 399 per cent, conservative Dreyfus reported 104 per cent, and Massachusetts Investors Growth, 78 per cent. According to a mutual fund specialist, $1,000 invested in Dreyfus—with a 9.3 per cent load—would have grown in those five years to $1,850 with dividends reinvested. In T. R. Price—a no-load—the corresponding total would have been $1,840.

This example, using two long-established funds, tells the story in figures. Bear in mind, however, the future cannot be projected solely on past performance. The familiar criteria of strong management, reasonable long-term stability and quality throughout the portfolio should determine your choice of a mutual fund whether you escape a sales fee or pay one.

EXPERIMENTAL FLIGHT

The experimental Boeing BO105 five-place, twin-engine helicopter hovers over the landing pad in Philadelphia. The first flight of the copter in the United States took place last week. The copter with its rigid rotor is the most advanced one of its kind in the world. Boeing purchased and has secured the exclusive rights to produce and sell the copter in the U.S. Messerschmitt-Boelkow-Blohm of Ottobrunn, Germany, who manufactured the famous German World War II fighter plane, designed and built this particular craft. '70 Housing Starts Will Show Decline

NEW YORK (UPI) — Housing starts will drop to 1.3 million this year from 1.5 million estimated for 1969, Johns-Manville Corp. said in its annual review of the construction industry.

George H. Martens Jr., vice president for marketing, said the 1970 projection is slightly above the 1.2 million low of 1966, "But far below the housing demand which economists estimate is at least two million starts annually."

Martens said it does not appear likely at the present time that the federal reserve will be in a position to relax its restrictive money policy early enough in the year to permit more than a moderate comeback, if any, in housing starts.

On the other hand, contracts for industrial plant construction "have recently taken a surprising upturn in spite of the fact that industry is operating well below its preferred ratio to capacity," he said.

Martens said the construction industry will continue to bear the brunt of the administration's antiinflation measures through at least the first half of 1970. Overall construction spending will fall to $88.4 billion from $90.8 billion in 1969.

Some Signs Market On The Rebound

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market began to show strength in moderate late trading today, recouping some of its early losses.

The Dow Jones industrial average at 2 p.m. was up 0.92 to 776.99 after being fractionally lower most of the day.

And the margin of declining stocks over advances narrowed to about 6 to 5 in late transactions.

IBM was up 1½ to 351½ after being down 5 in morning trading. The stock declined sharply in the two previous sessions, touching off a decline in many glamors, according to analysts.

Other glamours showing gains included Telex, up 5⅛ to 133⅛. The company reported sharply higher December quarter earnings Monday.

Xerox gained 1 to 107¼. Control Data 1 to 98⅝, National Cash Register ¼ to 160¼, and University Computing 1⅝ to 80⅜, all on an active turnover.

Polaroid the most-active Big Board issue was off 5⅜ to 196¼. The company aid there was no truth to reports it was cutting back production of colorpack cameras.

Syntex was a heavy loser as the American exchange's most-active stock, off 5¾ to 45⅞. Its closing low for the 1969-70 year was 49¼.

Slick Corp. was among several pollution-control stocks enjoying strength, up 1⅜ to 23½. Bache & Co. attributed the rise in such stocks to reports that President Nixon would stress environment control in his State of the Union message Thursday.
